IN THE BEE TO-DAY

WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., 8 a. m., March 5, '92.

The local forecast for to-day is cloudy, slightly warmer.

For Sunday, warmer, cloudy, probably clearing in the afternoon.

The storm center in New England has gained energy and is now central over Maine. Its influence extends westward only to Toledo and was the cause of the northerly winds and snow last night.

The storm reported yesterday in the southwest has not been able to advance northward on account of the increasing area of hig pressure just north of it. It will no doubt take an easterly course parallel with the Gulf. Its influence has, however, raised the temperature in the Ohio valley above 50 degrees and created rains at Indianapolis and Louisville. The lowest temperature reported this morning was 26 degrees in Dakota. The warmest was 56 degrees at Louisville, Ky. The weather is generally cloudy except in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Dakota and Montana, where it is generally clear and pleasant. The highest temperature in Toledo yesterday was 39 degrees. The coldest this morning was 29 degrees. Total melted snow and rain .33 in.

Forecast for Ohio—Generally cloudy weather with light snows; colder in southern portion; easterly winds.

For Michigan and Wisconsin—Cloudy weather, with rain or snow in southeast portion; southeasterly winds, becoming variable.

For Indiana and Illinois—Threatening weather and rain or snow; easterly winds, becoming variable; warmer in northwest portion; cooler in extreme southern portion.

The coming woman can be healthy. She will be, if she's wisely cared for. As she enters womanhood, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription builds up and strengthens the system and regulates and promotes the functions. It's a supporting tonic, and a quieting, strengthening nervine. It corrects and cures all those delicate derangements and weaknesses peculiar to the sex. In every case for which it's recommended, the "Favorite Prescription" is guaranteed to give satisfaction. If there's no help, there's no pay. It does all that's claimed for it, or the money is refunded.

It's a risky way to sell it—but it isn't your risk.

The manufacturers take all the risk by selling them on trial! It's an insult to your intelligence for any dealer to attempt to substitute other medicines for these, by recommending them to be "just as good," only that he may make a larger profit.

A DUKE IS DYING.

Louisthe Fourth Stricken with Paralysis,

And Believed to be Nearing His End.

A Son-in-Law of the Queen of England

Whose Public Career is Well Known.

In the Event of the Death of the Grand Duke of Hesse the Heir to the Throne Would be the Queen's Grandchild.

Berlin, March 5.—The grand duke of Hesse has been seized with paralysis of the right side. He is conscious, but in a critical condition, and his death is hourly expected.

The grand duke, Louis IV., was born September 12, 1857, and was married at Osborne, Isle of Wight, on the 1st of July, 1862, to Alice, daughter of Queen Victoria. At the time of the marriage of Princess Alice, the grand duke had a morganatic wife, whom he discarded for the hand of the princess.

On account of the morganatic wife, Queen Victoria was somewhat opposed to the marriage, but consented reluctantly, as Alice was deeply in love with the grand duke. Louis treated Alice well, and was a sincere mourner when she died in December, 1878.

One of their children is the Princess Elizabeth, wife of the Grand Duke Sergius, of Russia. Considerable sensation was caused last year by the conversion of Elizabeth to the Russian Greek church. It was alleged at the time that she was driven to espouse her husband's religion by violence and abuse on the part of the Russian imperial family and that her father, the grand duke, was strongly opposed to her leaving the Protestant faith, and wished her grandmother, Queen Victoria, to join with him in interfering.

The queen, however, advised her granddaughter to comply with her husband's wishes and sent her blessing. Another daughter of the grand duke and Princess Alice is Irene, who is married to Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of the kaiser. Prince Henry and his wife thus being grandson and granddaughter of Queen Victoria. Another daughter named Victoria is married to Princess Louis, of Battenburg.

The heir to the throne of Hesse is Prince Ernst Louis, born November 25, 1868. Should his father die, the accession of Ernst Louis will see another grandchild of Victoria on a European throne.

RECEIVER APPOINTED.

A Minor Stockholder Protects His Rights.

He Thinks He Sees in a Consolidation a Gigantic Scheme to Eat Up the Little Fish.

Macon, Ga., March 5.—The Central Railroad and Banking company, of Georgia, has been placed in the hands of a temporary receiver, by Judge Emory Speer, of the federal court, on the petition of a minor stockholder.

This is a hard blow to the West Point Terminal system, which is the lessee of the Central road properties, to which Jay Gould has taken such a fancy.

Gen. E. P. Alexander, one of the best known railroad men in the south, was named as temporary receiver, and yesterday telegraphed Judge Speer his acceptance of the appointment.

The bill upon which the receivership was granted attacks the lease of the Central railroad properties to the Richmond & Danville system as contrary to an article in the state constitution providing against the encouragement of monopoly by such combinations of large corporations. Judge Speer fixed March 13 as the day for a final hearing.

GOLD IN KANSAS.

Farmers Have All Taken Up the Pick.

Sensational Find That Has Filled the Sturdy Toiler with Great Expectations.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 5.—A resident of Plymore, Atchison county, Ks., arrived here yesterday and reported a find of gold near that place. A portion of a big bluff fell into the plain below. It was examined by a farmer in that vicinity, who discovered traces of the precious metal. A sample of it was sent to Kansas City, where it was assayed and pronounced very valuable. The lucky finder has purchased 160 acres of the land and neighboring farmers have neglected their farms for the pick and shovel, and all are seeking gold.

THE ST. PAUL DEAD.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 5.—The funerals of the seven men who were killed in the accident on the St. Paul road here on Tuesday were held from the South Side churches.

The attendance of friends was very large and the shop of the company remained closed during the day, giving the 2,000 employes an opportunity to attend.

WILL GO ON A STRIKE.

Weavers Refuse to Consider a Compromise.

Two Thousand Employes Refuse to Go to Work Unless Their Demands Are Complied with.

Providence, R. I., March 5.—Much dissatisfaction exists among the 2,000 employes of the Riverside worsted mills at Olneyville, and a strike is likely to occur at any moment.

The corporation offered compromise terms to the weavers, but at a meeting last evening the offer was rejected and a committee appointed to make further demands, with a strike as the alternative.

SUGAR BEETS.

Huron County Farmers Think of Raising Them.

Norwalk, O., March 5.—A large and enthusiastic meeting was held by prominent citizens, including many farmers, to talk over the matter of calling a convention to take steps toward the raising of sugar beets in this county and the erection in this city of a mammith sugar factory.

Much enthusiasm was manifested. Remarks were made by Hon. C. H. Gallup, Hon. J. A. Williamson, James G. Gibbs, J. W. Richardson, William Perrin, Rial Ruadell, L. S. Gibson, and others.

A committee of the prominent farmers was appointed to arrange for a mass meeting in this city on Tuesday, March 15, to set the ball going. Huron county is right in the sugar-beet growing belt.

CAME OUT VICTORIOUS.

Young Timothy Will Receive Three Millions.

The Hopkins-Searles Case Settled on a Compromise—Everybody Satisfied.

New York, March 5.—The Herald this morning says that the famous Searles-Hopkins will case has been settled by the defendant paying to young Timothy Hopkins $3,000,000.

It is also stated that the twenty-four or twenty-five relatives of Mrs. Searles have been satisfied and the case may be considered as settled forever.

Wilhelmus Myrederse, counsel for Mrs. Searles, in an interview said that the young man would get the amount agreed upon in stocks and bonds and in California real estate. Hopkins unconditionally withdrew his appeal from Judge Harmon's decision last Wednesday.

In reply to a question at to when the compromise was signed, Mr. Myrederse said: "There has been no compromise; there was nothing to compromise."

Russel J. Wilson, Timothy Hopkins' counsel, on the other hand declares that he had compromised the case, but beyond saying that his client was satisfied, declined to talk about the matter.

DIFFERENCES SETTLED.

Canada and Newfoundland Getting Together.

Ottawa, Ont., March 5.—The difficulties between Canada and Newfoundland seems to be in a fair way of adjustment, the dominion government having instructed Sir Charles Tupper to enter into conference with Hon. Mr. Marvey, representing Newfoundland, the two to be associated with a representative of the British government, with a view to the settlement of the matters that have for some time been in dispute between the two governments.

It is understood that Newfoundland will modify the heavy duties imposed last year on imports from Canada and that the dominion government will remove the retaliatory duty levied on fish imported into Canada from Newfoundland.

Mr. Coudrey, who lives at No. 144 North Kedzie avenue, sues for $50,000 damages for the alienation of his wife's and children's affections, alleging that Schweinfurth, with his so-called apostles, has been guilty of conspiracy and questionable practices in the carrying out of his designs.

LIBERALS WON THE DAY.

Great Victory Secured in South Derbyshire.

Forces Defeated After a Hard Fight.

The Mining Population Voted Almost Solidly for the Liberal on Account of Government Oppression.

London, March 5.—The liberals have carried the election in South Derbyshire, Broad, the liberal candidate, having 5,803 votes to 4,553 for Melville, conservative.

In the last election Henry Wardle, liberal had 5,102 votes, to 3,949 for Coke, the conservative and unionist candidate.

The fight was largely on Irish home rule, Mr. Melville having declared before the election: "I am a staunch supporter of the union between England, Scotland and Ireland, believing that any attempt to tamper with the existing bonds would seriously endanger the unity and prosperity of the empire, but at the same time I am in favor of granting a generous measure of local government to Ireland.

"I have always advocated progressive legislation on constitutional lines for the benefit of the working classes, greater facilities for acquiring land whether in small holdings or allotments, and the further development of the system of local government.

"I have thought it my duty to identify myself with the express wishes of the large mining population of this district. Feeling confident that the action of the present government (whether as upholding the honor of England abroad, or establishing security and prosperity at home by remission of taxes and careful finance and the increase of our naval defense, as restoring law and welfare to Ireland, or as legislating for the benefit of the working people of this country), will be viewed by you in favorable contrast to the promises of the opposition."

The mining population voted almost universally for the liberal candidate, largely on the ground of the way in which the Derbyshire miners have lately been oppressed and persecuted by the Marquis of Londonderry and other conservative owners of mining property.

The tories labored hard for a victory, and succeeded in bringing out a large vote.

Great satisfaction is felt in liberal circles with the success of the party.

HONOR IS AT STAKE.

An Interesting Suit Filed at Crawfordsville, Ind.

Prominent and Wealthy Citizens Sued, Charged with Defrauding the People.

Crawfordsville, Ind., March 5.—A sensational suit was filed in the circuit court yesterday which involves the honor of several of Crawfordsville's wealthiest and most prominent citizens.

The Wabash Valley Protective Union, a mutual life insurance society, has sued N. J. Clodfelter, the Wabash poet; W. H. Durban, president of the First national bank; W. Humphrey, a congressional aspirant, and six other prominent men, for $150,000 damages.

Until January the men were officials in the protective union. The present officers sue them, claiming that during their administration they conspired to defraud the union and beneficiaries of its deceased members.

ENGLAND'S WANING POWER.

A Great Nation Rapidly Falling Behind.

From the Proud Mistress of the Sea She Has Dropped to an Alarming Extent.

Brussels, March 5.—The Independence Belge is publishing a series of articles signed "Nauticus," which is said to be the nom de plume of a well-known authority on naval subjects.

The writer makes a decided attack on England's naval power. He says that England is nearing a maritime Sadowa; that she should possess 40 per cent. of the naval forces in the world in order to hold the commanding position which she assumes, and that she only possesses 23 per cent.

BACK FROM THE FIGHT.

Chicago, March 5.—The main body of Chicago sports that went to New Orleans to see the fight returned yesterday evening. They were disgusted with the way affairs terminated.

One and all pronounce Fitzsimmons a marvel, but say that Maher is not game and could have gone on. Ryan will be here to-day. His brother-in-law, who arrived on the train, says he has been a pretty sick man.

ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT.

Ottawa, Ill., March 5.—The supreme court judges have given no intimation of any action in the Cronin case. They are all here except Judge Shope, who may not appear at all during the term. They are at work on routine business, and no opinions are looked for for some days.

OVER ONE HUNDRED

Fishermen Perished in the Great Storm.

Many Families Left Destitute, for Which Collections Will Be Taken in Churches To-Morrow.

Lisbon, March 5.—The official report of the storm of last Saturday shows the visitation to have been frightful in its extent.

The estimated number of fishermen who perished was 105, and the whole coast of Portugal is in mourning for the dead.

Many families are left entirely destitute and the well-to-do are called upon to aid in saving them from starvation.

The king and queen have made generous gifts for the benefit of the sufferers, and their example has been followed by the nobility and gentry, the rich merchants and the public generally.

One fisherman leaves a family of 11 children, the oldest being only 19. In all the churches to-morrow collections will be taken up.

TO QUELL TROUBLE.

Why Prince Galitzin was Placed in Command of Tobolsk.

St. Petersburg, March 5.—It appears that the cause of the appointment of Prince Galitzin with unlimited powers to the command of Tobolsk, Siberia, was owing to the riots which for some time have prevailed at that place.

The lower class of the population has broken out in disorder on several occasions, and the authorities have found it difficult to deal effectively with the disturbance.

It is believed that nihilism is at the bottom of the agitation, and this makes the suppression all the more necessary, in the opinion of the czar.

PAYING ITS DEBTS.

Washington, March 5.—The comptroller of the currency has declared an annual dividend of 5.57 per cent. in favor of the creditors of the Central National bank of Chicago, making in all 65.57 per cent. on claims proved, amounting to $290,617.36, payable through Otis R. Glover, receiver, 905 Tacoma building, Chicago.

BULKELEY AND RUSSELL.

Two Governors Have Different Opinions.

Massachusetts and Connecticut Have a Falling Out Over the Matter of a Requisition.

Boston, March 5.—Gov. Russell has sent a reply to Gov. Bulkeley, of Connecticut, in response to a communication from the latter, refusing to grant the extradition for Preston B. Sibley, now under indictment in Massachusetts, charged with forcibly taking a prisoner across the line into Connecticut.

Gov. Bulkeley based his refusal upon three grounds: that practice has made a usage by which officers of another state can, without legal warrant, cross the state line and seize escaped convicts; that Sibley has committed no crime against the laws of Massachusetts, and that Sibley is not a fugitive from justice.

Gov. Russell discusses the points fully and says in conclusion: "I performed my duties in asking by a proper requisition for the rendition of a person now residing in Connecticut, under indictment of the grand jury of this county, for a crime alleged to have been committed in this commonwealth. You will perform your duty by meeting the requisition in comity that has heretofore existed between the two states."

A BLACK MAN SUSPECTED.

BURGLARS IN TIFFIN.

A Number of Public Places Entered.

Nominations by Democratic Ward Caucuses—Delegates to the City Convention.

Tiffin, O., March 5.—(Special)—The postoffice, Selles' clothing house and several other places in this city were entered by what appears to be a gang of inexperienced burglars last night.

A few dollars in money was secured at the postoffice, but the stamps and mail were not disturbed.

Selles' safe was opened, but the thieves were unable to open the cash box, which contained considerable of value, though it was wrenched from its fastenings.

Nominations.

At the democratic ward caucuses, which were held last evening, the following nominations were made:

Councilmen—William H. Hielman, Martin L. Albrecht, George Strausbaugh, William H. Reppel and William Heller.

Assessors—P. H. Ryan, Andrew Houck, Anthony Hahn, B. F. Harter and Benj. Schinness.

Delegates were selected to the democratic city convention which will be held on the evening of the 11th.

CLEVELAND CANNOT COME.

The Ex-President Will Keep Out of Gray's Back Yard.

Indianapolis, March 5.—The annual meeting of the Indiana Tariff Reform league was to have been held yesterday but was postponed until March 11, in the hope that ex-President Cleveland would be here, but the meeting will have to be held without his presence.

Mr. Cleveland has declined to come. His reasons are not made public, but it is thought that he believes it would be impolite to invade ex-Gov. Gray's territory.

COCKING MAIN.

Cleveland Wips Six Out of Nine Bloody Contests.

Cleveland, O., March 5.—One of the biggest cocking mains ever held in this state was broken up in a Cleveland suburb last night by the sheriff, who arrested some 70 sports from this city, Cincinnati, Detroit, Toledo, Buffalo, Pittsburg and other places.

New York, March 5.—The rumor current on the New York and Chicago stock exchanges this morning that Jay Gould was dead is pronounced false by the officials of the Western Union Telegraph company.

GREECE IS UP IN ARMS

Against the Action of King George.

Great Excitement in Athens To-Day.

The People Take the Part of the Deposed Delyannis and Denounce the King Most Bitterly.

Athens, March 5.—Great excitement reigns and rumors of an approaching revolution are heard everywhere.

It is said that people in the interior are arming.

In Athens the principal streets are cumbered by crowds discussing the situation. Every member of the Boule seen in public becomes the center of a throng of inquirers.

Loud utterances are heard condemning King George for what is called his usurpation, and the partisans of M. Delyannis do not hesitate to denounce the king as a usurper who is endeavoring to follow in the footsteps of his brother-in-law, the czar, and to substitute Russian rule for the constitutional government of Greece.

Already 300 partisans of the deposed premier, M. Delyanis, have been arrested while the ex-members of his cabinet are closely watched.

This, however, has had no effect in quelling the popular excitement. When it is heard that an arrest has been made the people shout for and cheer the prisoner and his journey to the jail is an ovation.

The king has ordered that the military and naval forces be kept in readiness for possible trouble and it is said that he had long consultations yesterday with the representatives of Great Britain and Russia.

COLD TYPE IS FORCEFUL.

F. D. Locke Pulls in the Cleveland Interview.

He Did Say Something, But Just What It Was the Gentleman Wants to Keep to Himself.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 5.—Mr. Franklin D. Locke had his attention called to-day to the dispatch from Rochester yesterday to the effect that ex-President Cleveland had said to him that he is in sympathy with the May convention, and that he is not a candidate for president, but will accept the nomination if tendered him.

Mr. Locke said: "There is not a particle of truth in it from first to last, nor anything out of which it could be made. I met Mr. Cleveland in New York last week. Probably somebody saw us together and made up the story from it. Mr. Cleveland did say that everybody ought to be given an opportunity to be heard in political matters or something of that sort."

"Was that all he said?" was asked.

"Oh, he said more than that, but I cannot tell you what it was," replied Mr. Locke, and this was all he could be persuaded to say on the subject.

He Was Better This Morning and Hopes Soon to be at His Desk.

Washington, March 5.—The following official announcement was made at the state department to-day:

"Secretary Blaine is a victim of the grip. He was taken Wednesday afternoon quite suddenly and severely. His fever was high on Thursday and Friday. He is much better this morning and hopes to be out in a few days."

TELL-TALE LOVE LETTERS

They May Get Mr. Sampson Out of Trouble.

Mrs. Bernstein No Longer Wishes to Prosecute.

Both Parties to the Suit Have Fainted and the Court Witnesses a Sensational Case.

London, March 5.—A stir was caused in the Westminster police court to-day by the news that Mrs. Margaret Bernstein had collapsed under the strain caused by her love letters to "strong man Sampson," and wished to drop the case in order to avoid the other love letters that the defense had reserved for further use as ammunition.

Sampson, it will be remembered, was accused of stealing a quantity of jewelry and £770 in money from Mrs. Bernstein, who had fallen deeply in love with him while he was on exhibition as a strong man in London.

The case has been made interesting by various fainting spells among the principals, beginning with Sampson himself, who fainted in court upon seeing his accuser, Mrs. Bernstein, between whom and the strong man the old affection was evidently not dead.

Upon the opening of the case to-day the solicitor for Sampson stated that he had received a communication from Mrs. Bernstein saying that she was unable to face the ordeal of the court, and that she was willing to accept the return of the remaining jewelry in full settlement of the case.

The presiding magistrate said he could not consent to any such disposition of the charge. While he felt obliged to admit the letters claimed to have been written by Mrs. Bernstein to Sampson as evidence in the case, he emphatically disapproved the policy of parading in court the trusting letters of a foolish woman for the purpose of vilifying her and of influencing the course of justice, irrespective of the real merits of the charge. The case must therefore proceed.

The solicitor for Sampson then read another letter dated January 17, as follows:

My Darling Carl: I repeat that I am not legally married to the man who is called my husband and who is only carrying on this proceeding against you in order to get money. Darling Carl, don't give me up. I do love you.

The letter went on to suggest that Sampson should try to become reconciled with the husband, Mr. Bernstein, until he (Sampson) should be ready to take her away with him.

Detective Turrell, who had arrested Sampson, took the witness stand. He said that when Sampson was arrested he asserted that Mrs. Bernstein owed him £100.

A statement was read purporting to be from the brother of Mrs. Bernstein, intended to show that when Sampson took the diamonds to America he thought that the plaintiff would follow him later, and that Mrs. Bernstein gave Sampson a pawn ticket for jewelry, asking him to redeem it and keep it until repaid.

The counsel asked the magistrate to adjourn the case, but the magistrate refused, and decided to await the appearance of the plaintiff, who was in the office of her lawyer waiting to hear the result of the proceedings.

The magistrate took occasion to say that he would be no party to an attempt to enforce an arrangement of a criminal case.

LIEUT.-GOV. HARRIS

Drops Into Toledo for a Brief Visit.

While Harrison Has Made a Good President, He is for McKinley Next Time.

Lieutenant-Governor Harr's arrived in the city last evening, and is spending the day with old army comrades here.

"No, there is nothing particularly interesting in legislative matters at Columbus just now," he said to a Bee to-day.

"Whom do you regard, Mr. Harris, as the strongest man for the republican ticket this year?"

"Well, Harrison has given the country a clean administration, and he is popular, but it is a question if he is the most available candidate."

"What do you think of Gov. McKinley as a presidential possibility?"

"He is the most available man the republicans can put up, and he would be a strong candidate in every way. Yes, I think McKinley would do."

Mr. Harris left this afternoon for Columbus, where he will resume his legislative duties.

RECEIVER APPOINTED.

The senator received telegrams from from Hill clubs at Selma, Ala., Orlando, Fla., and other cities in the south inviting him to address them during his southern trip.

Senator Hill will return to Albany Monday when his southern trip will be fully arranged.

CATTLE DISEASE.

Glasgow, March 5.—The cattle market here is demoralized and the same may be said of the market throughout western Scotland.

Owing to the foot and mouth disease all sales and movements of cattle in the counties of Lanark, Renfrew, Stirling, Dunbarton and Clackmannan have been prohibited.

This is a great gain for the Irish cattle trade which have almost a monopoly of the Glasgow market while the disease prevails.

IT SHOULD BE TRUE.

Washington, March 5.—Inquiry at the state department fails to confirm the report telegraphed from Valparaiso that Minister Egan will return to the United States in April.

A MILLION AND A HALF

Of Working People in Old England

Will Feel the Effect of the Great Strike.

The Threatened Coal Famine Has Caused the Factories to Give Notice of an Indefinite Shut-Down.

London, March 5.—In view of the threatened coal strike and coal famine that must surely follow, most of the factories in Lancashire, Cheshire, Durham, Tyneside, and other important manufacturing districts are seriously considering the question of shutting down until the trouble is over.

The operatives in these factories have been given the customary notice, and are greatly alarmed at the prospect of a period of enforced idleness.

It is computed that already a million and half of people are directly or indirectly affected by the mining troubles, and it is believed that if the output of coal should be restricted for a fortnight, as proposed, there would be a million idle mill operatives.

The prospect of a strike is especially alarming to the iron trade in Birmingham, and a majority of the iron works will be closed if there should be a stoppage of the coal output for more than a week. Gas companies in all the large cities will be affected, and although they have large contracts running the strike clause will release the colliery owners from their obligations.

In Sheffield there are very small stocks of manufacturing coal on hand and much the same condition exists in the other great industrial centers. Of house coal the stocks, it is said, are very small everywhere.

The colliery owners are apparently determined to enforce the 10 per cent. reduction of wages of the miners and the latter, in most cases, appear equally as determined to resist the proposed reduction. As yet no compromise seems possible and every indication points to a strike being ordered by the miners' federation on the 12th of March. If the strike is ordered it will continue for two weeks, at the end of which the miners believe, the price of coal will be so high on account of the restricted output that the colliery owners will have no grounds on which to sustain the proposed reduction of wages.

IN BUSINESS TROUBLE.

Joseph Bork, a Buffalo Real Estate Dealer, Embarrassed.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 5.—Joseph Bork, one of the largest and best known real estate dealers in the city, is financially embarrassed and a number of suits for foreclosure of mortgages have been begun. Among those interested is the Albany Savings bank, which holds a mortgage for $40,000 on a new building being erected by Mr. Bork. Mr. Bork is ill at his home. He claims that his assets will cover the liabilities and that anything looking like improper transactions is probably due to clerical errors.

BETTER TRADE OUTLOOK.

Cotton and Iron Lagging Behind.

The Country Is Not Large Enough to Use the Enormous Supply—General Mention.

New York, March 4.—The weekly review of trade by R. G. Dun & Co. says: Domestic trade gradually improves, even at the south, where much of the trouble seems to have been due to unwillingness of holders to sell cotton at low prices, rather than to actual loss on such sales. Supplies of money are everywhere ample.

It is still the fact that the two dark spots are directly caused by over-production. Cotton receipts this week have been light. Efforts to curtail the production this year appear to meet with some success. The only possible remedy for troubles in the iron trade is to be applied according to dispatches by the closing of some furnaces. Current prices are called about the lowest on record. The rail combination still waits for buyers. The trouble in this industry is that too great and sudden expansion was expected. Copper is unchanged, tin weaker and lead moderately active. The coal market still continues uncertain, as the combination is not ready to act, but agents recommend an output of only 2,500,000 tons in March.

A better situation appears in textile manufactures, for cotton mills are well employed and trade in cotton goods improves all over the country, even at the south. In woolen mills and in sales of wool decided improvement is seen. Wool is lower, as holders grow anxious to sell before the new clip comes. The spring trade in dress goods closes in good shape, while in men's woolens the right fabrics and colors to meet the taste sells rapidly. More demand is noted for black cheviots. In boots and shoes there is much more activity, but the many buyers at Boston still act with reserve, and shipments are as yet seven per cent. behind last year's to date.

Speculation has not been at all active, and it may be fortunate that good exports checked the rising fever in season. Wheat has declined half a cent with small sales, the receipts for half the week being over 2,000,0000, against only 575,000 bushels exported. Corn comes forward freely, receipts being 1,800,000 bushels in three days, but exports are heavy, 2,390,000 bushels in the same time, and the price half a cent higher. Pork products are a shade higher; oil a quarter, and coffee an eighth higher.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the past seven days number 240, as compared with 270 last week, and 265 for the same week last year.

DETROIT MAY GET EXCITED

And Mob the New and Latter House of Israel.

The Case of Joseph Richardson Dropped in Court, Much to the Disgust of the People.

Detroit, March 5.—The habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Joseph Richardson for the recovery of his child came to a sudden end in court when the attorney for his wife, who had joined an odd religious community, and taken the child with her, proposed that the proceedings be dropped in order that husband and wife be not further estranged.

Mrs. Richardson refuses to return to her husband or leave her new affiliations, and the long-haired brothers of the New and Latter House of Israel are correspondingly jubilant.

The woman continues to have possession of her daughter, for whose recovery the father was suing. There was much disapproval manifested by the crowd in court at the unexpected turn of the proceedings. The brethren of the New and Latter House of Israel are liable to get mobbed before the people get through with them.

IS DR. SCUDDER INSANE?

Attendants Declare That He is Shamming.

Strange Actions by the Man Who is Suspected of Having Murdered His Mother-in-Law.

Chicago, March 5.—Dr. Henry M. Scudder is either insane or giving a clever imitation of insanity. The attendants at the detention hospital take the latter view of it. When a reporter stood at the door of Dr. Scudder's cell the man raved and talked of people who were pursuing him, and sprang at the bars like a wild man. In calmer moments he declared that he had committed no murder.

"Murder," he screamed. "It's a damnable lie. I know nothing about it. Oh, yes; I believe they did say something about it, but I was too sick to pay any attention to them." Then he became more rational. "It is preposterous," said he. "Do you think I would kill an old woman who had only a few months to live at best? Rot and nonsense."

Then the doctor grew wild. Making a spring at the grated door he yelled: "You look like the man that came sneaking around and peered through the window at me last night. He was a fiend. All night long he peered and smirked at me. You are he, and you have come to torment me. Go away."

All further efforts at conversation were fruitless.

The attendant in charge of Dr. Scudder declares that the man is shamming and not doing it well, either.

INSANE MAN AT LARGE.

Fears for the Safety of John C. Newmyer.

He Escaped From a Train and Is Supposed to be Wandering About Pennsylvania.

Pittsburg, March 5.—The Harrisburg, Pa., Patriot of to-day says: Hon. John C. Newmyer of Allegheny county, prothonotary of the United States court for western Pennsylvania, and a member of the state senate from 1875 to 1882, and 1887 to 1890, was taken from the western express, at the request of the conductor on the arrival of the train on the Pennsylvania road from Jersey City.

The police patrol wagon and officers conveyed Mr. Newmyer into the presence of Mayor Fritchey, who informed Mr. Newmyer that he heard that he was temporarily incapable of taking care of himself and that they proposed to look after his welfare.

The trainmen say that as the train approached Harrisburg Mr. Newmyer jumped from his berth and rushed up and down the aisle of the car flourishing a revolver and terrorizing the passengers. He was much excited and made nonsensical charges against those nearest and dearest to him.

After a consultation with his officers, Mayor Fritchey placed Mr. Newmyer on the train and notified his friends in Pittsburg to meet him. The train reached Pittsburg and three of Mr. Newmyer's brothers were waiting, but Mr. Newmyer was not on the train. The conductor could give them no information except that he had first been missed from his place in the sleeper just before the train reached Johnstown. The conductor believes that the ex-senator jumped from the train.

Telegrams have been sent to every station and a search instituted.

Mr. Newmyer's many friends in Pittsburg are much alarmed for his safety. At his home in Swissvale, it is said that Mr. Newmyer has been in ill health for a long time, suffering from blood poison. He was en route home from a trip to the Bermudas, where he had gone seeking health.

HE MURDERED THE BABY.

Awful Deed of a Five-Year-Old Boy.

A Colored Child Beats to Death a White Infant While Its Mother Was Absent.

Columbia, S. C., March 5.—Mrs. Addie Beacham left her 7-months-old babe sleeping in the house and stepped out. After she had gone Bud Harris, a little 5-year-old negro boy who lives next door slipped in, carrying a bent and heavy piece of iron with a sharp point.

He stole quietly up to the cradle and repeatedly brought the fearful weapon down on the skull of the sleeping infant, perforating its skull as if with an awl. The sharp instrument penetrated the child's ear several times. Seeing the blood spurt he fled to the yard. The child's mother having heard the babe's screams rushed back to the house to find the infant saturated in blood and dying.

WHOLESALE SMUGGLING

Brought to Light in the City of Chicago.

Mrs. "Kate Reilly" Charged with Doing a Land Office Business in a Crooked Way.

Chicago, March 5.—A horsewhipping here has led to a government investigation into the alleged wholesale smuggling of imported dress goods.

S. C. Wade, a young Englishman, soundly castigated J. A. Cummings, manager of Kate Reilly's fashionable dressmaking establishment in this city, claiming that Cummings had grossly insulted his wife, who was employed in the place. He also alleges that his wife and many other young women were induced to leave England by Kate Reilly's representatives, who promised them large salaries, and also induced them to smuggle large quantities of wraps and Parisian robes, which Mr. Wade claims was the only object in bringing them over.

He has laid this information before the authorities, who have visited the place and seized several robes which it is claimed Kate Reilly herself smuggled into this country. They propose to make an inventory of all the goods in the place and seize all that have not paid duty.

Mr. Wade has given the authorities a list of names of women who have recently been brought to America by Kate Reilly, and who each, he claims, brought over from $2,500 to $5,000 worth of dresses and wraps without paying Uncle Sam his fees. Kate Reilly, or "Mrs. Major Arthur Griffith," as she is known in London society, is among the celebrated dressmakers of the world.

In London, England, she is the court dressmaker and lives in a mansion at Nos. 14 and 16 Dover street, Picadilly.

Her husband is an ex-major of the English army, and is the federal inspector of prisons. She also has a fashionable establishment at No. 477 Fifth avenue, New York.

Mrs. Wade says she was hired in England by Major Griffith, and sent to this country with $3,000 worth of goods, which she smuggled through the New York custom house and landed free of duty in the New York establishment. She avers that it is the custom of Kate Reilly to bring over young women to smuggle in goods and discharge them after a short time to make room for others, thus violating not only the customs laws, but the alien contract labor law as well. Mrs. Wade makes similar accusations against other fashionable dressmakers in this city and New York.

El Paso, Tex., March 5.—Ralph Chandler, the Detroit railroad cashier arrested in Mexico for embezzling funds of the Lake Shore Railroad company, has been released at Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, the 72 hours within which, according to Mexican law, proof of guilt must be submitted, having expired. He will doubtless escape.

Findlay, O., March 5.—Contractor C. G. Patterson, of New York city, and Col. Rosser, general superintendent of the Findlay, Ft. Wayne & Western road, visited the city of Ft. Wayne, Ind., this week, in the interests of the new trunk line. They were warmly received by the leading citizens of that city, who are anxious to secure another trunk line outlet to the east. They claim Ft. Wayne people will do all they possibly can to encourage the building of the new road.

A NIGHT CLERK'S STORY.

"There was a tall, thin, kinder sad-looking chap put up here about three weeks ago who was a high roller from 'way back. The very first night he got out on the Bad Lands and came back shouting glory. It took two porters and all the bell boys to get him up stairs to bed. The next night he went out to a chicken fight and licked a couple of hackmen on the way home. He was pretty warm people, I tell you!"

"Rather."

"The next night—it was 1 a. m.—he came in, loaded, as usual. There was a theatrical troupe in town, and two of the actresses were about retiring as he passed up stairs, whooping like a lot of Sioux chasing a sutler's wagon. He rapped on the actresses' door, and as they wouldn't open it, of course he blew cigarette smoke through the keyhole and yelled, 'Fire!'"

"Made a panic, didn't it?"

"That's no name for it. Looked like a sheet and pillow case party in an insane asylum. We read the riot act then, but he put up a warm talk with the proprietor and squared it somehow. He was a velvet talker, as sure as you're born. The night after he coaxed me into a dice game and skinned $100 outer me quicker'n a wink."

"Made his expenses, eh?"

"Exactly. Well, the next morning he came down with his head swelled and his grip packed. He said he hated to leave us, as he'd had such a quiet, pleasant, genial sort of a time, but they called him and he must away. So I made out his bill."

"Made it pretty large, too, didn't you?"

"'Bout the usual—but wait. I handed him his account, and what do you think he said?"

"Can't imagine."

"Why, he said, 'Great Scott! don't you make a reduction to clergymen?'"—San Francisco Examiner.

ANN ARBOR GLEE CLUB

Disappoints the Westminster Young People's Society,

And Makes Poor Excuses for Doing It—Statement From Frank Rickenbaugh.

The Bee some time since announced that the Ann Arbor University Glee club would give an entertainment in Toledo, under the auspices of the Westminster Church Young People's society. The club, however, seems to have arranged differently without apparent just cause, and of course there is considerable harsh comment on their action. Mr. F. W. Rickenbaugh made what was regarded as satisfactory arrangements, but is considerably nonplussed at the turn affairs have taken. Talking with a Bee to-day, he gave the following facts, which do not reflect much credit on the university chaps:

"I can tell you something about the Ann Arbor University Glee club, but as it won't do them any good, perhaps it ought not to be published. They have treated the Young People's Society of Westminster church just a little too mean to entitle them to any consideration at all. A man in business to do as they have in this matter would soon be a bankrupt, and by his mean boyishness would drive every friend he might have away from him. But if you want to learn about it, I know of no reason why I should be under any obligation to withhold from the public the manner in which they have treated the society.

"About the 1st of February the young people of Westminster requested me to write the Ann Arbor Glee club and see if arrangements could not be made with them to give an entertainment here at Wheeler's. I wrote them and took occasion to tell them how unfavorably they were considered here by certain people; that their club was run down and considered a very poor one by some, and no comparison could be made with the Cornell Glee club, which club was here a year ago and greatly delighted Toledo people with their artistic entertainment. I also suggested to them that the Cornell club had been favored with a request from the Star course committee to give another entertainment here this year, although the Ann Arbors wanted to come, I also suggested to them that there is still a very unfriendly feeling against Ann Arbor by members of our Outing club on account of the manner of treating certain members of the club when they went to Ann Arbor to play tennis some time ago. I wrote them that I thought now was a good time for them to come to Toledo and we would give them a fine reception, and thus they would have an opportunity to show Toledo people that they are gentlemen as well as artists.

"Under date of February 9 I received a letter from the manager of their club thanking me very heartily for my favor, and said, 'I am indebted to you for the information. We are very anxious to appear in Toledo, and hope that you can arrange to present us at the above figure, and can make it a bigger social and financial success than the Cornell concert. If you will it is a go. Hoping for a favorable reply at your earliest convenience, I am, etc.'

"Several days later I got a short letter saying they could not come for the price they named, which was by the way not very small. I then wrote them and asked them to name a price that would be satisfactory and they made no reply. I then wrote them as follows:

"'Toledo, O., Feb. 27, '92.

Mr.....

"'Dear Sir: You have not answered my letter of the 19th inst. I have an intimation that your club proposes to use the information obtained from me (for which you were very thankful) to your own advantage. I will not believe that you will treat our society in this manner until I have the facts from you. Will you have the kindness to answer my letter.

"'Yours, etc.,

"'F. W. Rickenbaugh.'

"Under date of February 27, another letter was written to me in which he said, 'I have closed a date with Toledo with others parties.'

"On the 1st of March I answered his last letter as follows, and this fairly expresses our notions and shows what consideration they should receive from Toledo people:

Toledo, O., March 1, 1892.

"'Mr.....

"'Dear Sir: Yours dated Saturday received yesterday. We are astonished that your club has treated our society with so little business honor, and with bad faith. If your club has any regard for your word, in requesting that our society present you in Toledo (on that account we have gone to trouble and expense before you notified us you did not care to have us present you) you will at once see where the bad faith arises.

"'We feel wronged, and advise you so that you may have opportunity to right the matter before it is too late. Your statement under date of the 27th ult., are not satisfactory. If matters are not fixed up as they should be soon, I assure you that the end will be, at least, very unsatisfactory to your club.

"'Yours truly.

"'F. W. Rickenbaugh.'

"I have had no further word from them, and I presume I will not. I presume they will now get their full reward."

"To Whom it May Concern:

"Unasked I deem it my duty to a suffering humanity whose bodies and souls I would have healthy, to tell them of the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. While living in Ohio one of my children was greatly having 30 on her limbs, and being unable to walk. I had heard of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and bought a bottle, half of which cured entirely. Two years after, another child was afflicted as badly. I used the other half bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla with like results. About four years after, the child first afflicted was again tormented like Job, and I bought a bottle (on Sunday at that) and again a cure. I gave some of the medicine to a poor woman and two children; they were helped as were mine. Through a testimonial sent to C. I. Hood & Co., inquiries came from all the country, asking if it was a 'bona fide' testimonial, and of course I wrote all that it was, and have the knowledge of

of persons helped or cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mild cases of rheumatism have yielded to it. Biliousness and bad liver have been corrected in my own family. This is the only patent medicine I have felt like praising. I speak not for C. I. Hood, but for the Jobs who are impatient and are tormented beyond endurance. Nothing I know of will cleanse the blood, stimulate the liver, or clean the stomach so perfectly as

The meeting of the representatives of the Ohio and Pennsylvania coal roads was held at Pittsburg yesterday for the purpose of taking up the matter of coal rates to the lake for the coming season. J. M. Ferris, of this city, general manager of the Ohio Central lines, presided, and several other Toledo officials were present. Very little was done at the meeting. It was more of a feeler than anything else There is a scheme on foot to run coal to the lake from the Pittsburg district on the same basis as from the Ohio fields. Another meeting will be held March 15.

NOT GUILTY

So Says General Freight Agent Booth of the Wheeling.

At times some very laughable mistakes occur in the make up of newspapers. The following clipping, in which two items got mixed, was carried around for two day by General Freight Agent H. J. Booth, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, as it cast reflections upon him:

"The revival meetings in Third Street M. E. church will be continued this week. Preaching by Rev. Geo. Matthews every night at 7:30. The Toledo & Ohio Central, the Wheeling & Lake Erie, the Pennsylvania, the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo railroads will be represented at the meeting."

Mr. Booth says he is not guilty.

A FORMER TOLEDOAN.

Joseph R. Swigart, Dies at Hutchinson, Kansas.

Word was received in this city to-day of the death of a former Toledoan, Major Joseph R. Swigart, which occurred at Hutchinson, Ks. It will be remembered that Mr. Swigart was for a number of years chairman of the republican committee of Lucas county. He was also internal revenue collector of the Toledo district. For the past four years he had residence at Hutchinson, where he was a member of the law firm of Swigart, Martin & Crawford. He leaves five children, George, of Carbondale, Col.; Edmund R., of Bucyrus; Bessie, Joseph R. and Carl A., of Hutchinson. Mrs. Swigart died several years ago, and is buried at Bucyrus, where the remains of her husband will also be interred.

CORPORATIONS IN IT.

Judge Harmon Takes a Case From the Jury and Enters Judgment for the Clover Leaf.

The corporations have been exceedingly successful in common pleas court this week.

Judge Harmon this morning took the case of Patrick Conroy against the Clover Leaf Railroad company from the jury and rendered judgment in favor of the railroad. Conroy, it seems, was injured on one of the company's boats by a falling block, and he brought suit to recover $1,000 damages.

Mr. Brown for the defense this morning, at the conclusion of the plaintiff's case, presented a motion requesting the court to take the case from the jury on the ground that no evidence had been introduced to show that the company was responsible for the accident.

OSBORN WAS HANDICAPPED.

The New Orleans Trapshooters Were Afraid of Toledo.

It seems the Louisiana trap-shooters are afraid of the Buckeyes. George Osborn, of this city, champion of Ohio, and Dick Smith have just returned from New Orleans, where they went to participate in the tournament of the Louisiana Gun club. Mr. Osborn was particular to write regarding the handicaps and received answer that there would be no handicaps. It was with this understanding that he went to New Orleans. On arriving there, however, he found matters different. The shooters from the southern states would not contest against him on equal terms, on the grounds that he was an expert,—consequently Mr. Osborn did but little shooting and had no show at all. Mr. Smith sailed in and captured quite a number of prizes. The action of the Louisiana Gun club in the matter was hardly fair.

A MATTER OF STOCK.

Judge Pugsley Issues an Injunction—An Election Finally.

Late last evening Judge Pugsley, in common pleas court, granted a temporary injunction restraining stockholders of the Toledo Wire Nail company from voting certain stock in the election of officers. The order was issued on a suit filed by James A. Corbusier against Theobold Schunk and Sylvester Lamb, principal stockholders in the concern.

The plaintiff alleges that the company was organized under a capital stock of $60,000 and that $16,000 worth of stock was paid to J. M. Tripp and J. M. Lively for the purchase of certain machinery to manufacture wire nails, of which the above named gentlemen were the patentees. After the company had been organized, 19 shares of the capital stock were applied in payment on the machinery; that the patent proved worthless and the defendants and Lively and Tripp as directors, unlawfully agreed to pay $5,000 of the capital stock, payment in full for the patent on the machinery, and 150 shares were issued to them to pay for the machinery; that the machinery proved a failure and was sold as old iron; that the defendants acquired possession of the stock owned by Lively and Tripp and transferred it to their own use; that this gave them a majority in the directory, and they intended to close up the career of the company in their own interests. The plaintiff prayed that for himself and other stockholders the defendant be required to deliver up to the company the stock for cancellation and that they be enjoined from selling, transferring or voting any stock.

The meeting was called to order, and before the vote was taken the parties in possession of the stock thus enjoined withdrew and the other stockholders proceeded to elect officers as follows: Directors, J. H. Ainsworth, A. Blodgett, J. A. Corbusier, L. A. Chase and J. C. Bonner. J. C. Bonner president, J. H. Ainsworth vice president, A. Blodgett secretary, and J. A. Corbusier treasurer.

THE CARVER ESTATE

Goes to His Sister-in-Law, Mrs Carver,

After a Special Act Had Been Passed by the Legislature—A Settlement Not Often Occurring.

The probate court to-day determined an estate which has been disposed of under unusual circumstances. It is the estate of Mary A. Carver, deceased.

A year ago Edward Carver, a conductor on the Wabash railroad, died, and his estate reverted to his wife, Mary Carver. Not long ago Mary A. Carver died without a will. J. K. Hamilton was appointed administrator, and advertised for heirs of the estate. None appeared, and the estate amounting to about $2,000, was submitted to the legislature to find some one to give it to. By a special act of the legislature Martha Carver, a sister-in-law of the deceased, was made heir, and Judge Millard to-day ordered Mr. Hamilton to turn the estate over to the owner.

The Journal, in referring to Mr. Engwersen, says: "Mr. Engwersen has a suberb tenor voice, rich in quality, and combines with it a nice method and clear enunciation. It is a delightful treat to listen to him. He gives you the impression that it is no task at all for him to sing, and that, if he liked, he could fill three such rooms with his voice." Toledoans will testify to the truth of these words.

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Folger, of Cherry street, was thrown open Thursday evening, when they entertained the Cherry Street Progressive Euchre club, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Sanzenbacher. Mrs. Joe Gartner took the ladies' first prize, having played five lone hands and winning 15 games. The gentlemen's first prize was won by Capt. F. T. Shipherd. The booby prizes were given to Mrs. Rob Raitz and Mr. Sanzenbacher. There was a tie for the consolation, Mr. Goulet, Mr. Mathews and Mrs. Gartner each having played five lone hands. Mr. Mathews won the victory.

Toledo, O., was well represented at the Mardi Gras festivities, the following persons being in attendance: F. P. Chapin and wife, M. Churchill and wife, A. Stuart and wife, Dr. Bacon and wife, S. H. Morgan and wife, Mrs. Henry L. Lorenz, Mrs. Dr. Goodwin, Will Coghlin, Walter Morgan, Meade Coghlin, G. G. Hadley, jr., Mr. Osborne and W. C. Tate. Several will return home, after spending a few days in the city. Mr. Chapin and wife, Mr. Churchill and wife and Mr. Hadley will continue their travels to Texas, Mexico, Hot Springs, Denver, etc.—New Orleans Picayune.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schwalbe entertained the Pleasure Euchre club at their residence, No. 1802 Locust street, last Wednesday evening. Previous to the hour for card playing several zither selections were rendered by Mr. Schwalbe, which were much enjoyed by all. At the conclusion of the evening's contest, the following members were declared winners: Mrs. J. Turem and Mr. Tom Laskey first favors, while Mrs. H. J. Schuky and Mr. Ed Pleiss carried off the booby. After the awarding of prizes a splendid luncheon was served by Mrs. Schwalbe, to which all did ample justice. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Rose Wenning, No. 809 Michigan street, next Wednesday evening.

IN A TERRIBLE STORM.

The Etruria Has a Rough Passage.

A Battle with the Waves All the Way Across the Raging Ocean.

London, March 5.—The steamship Etruria, which left New York February 27, has arrived in Liverpool after a terrific passage.

Almost from the time of starting the progress of the vessel was impeded by tremendous storms.

The Etruria plunged on, with her bow to the waves, which at times seemed about to overwhelm her. The great waves swept over the decks and made it impossible for passengers to remain in the open air. The deck was flooded and but for the hatchways the water would have deluged the ship.

One gigantic wave broke the after skylight and swamped the saloon, where the passengers were gathered, trying to be as comfortable as possible.

The crew were at work incessantly, repairing or preventing damage and two of the men, being caught in the rush of the waters over the deck, were knocked down and had limbs broken. Most of the lady passengers were sick throughout the whole trip and some of the male passengers were in equally unfortunate conditions.

M. C. SULLIVAN, Chairman.
D. C. DONOVAN, Secretary.

The Blair boomlet has put its little thumb in its little mouth and gone asleep.

The Missouri legislature was slandered. It is likely to give the republicans one district.

There was a Crisp time in the House yesterday, and the Reed was somewhat shaken by the wind.

Small wonder the fourth party is in favor of free timber; it has forty-leven planks in its platform.

Does Secretary Foster grow superstitious a bit when he thinks of Folger and Manning and Windom, or is it the sewer gas in the treasury building?

The newspaper which expects to make a hit with an "Ingersollian controversy" these days gets left, with Dr. Briggs, Senator Hill and Fitzsimmons on the boards.

The elections in New York are not exactly the kind of starter for Hill, on his southern tour, that he desired. He comes up smiling, however, in the newspaper cuts.

When an Alaskan gets five dollars in gold or paper they hasten to exchange it for silver, that being the coin they swear by. What a god-send some of these natives would be for the cause, in congress.

What with the New York elections, the supreme court decisions and the Ohio gerrymander, there was enough to bear; but Ward McAllister must arise and proclaim, "I am a democrat." Thus do woes multiply.

Chinese reciprocity will consist of bouncing John out of this country with a sharp political pitchfork, and the hustling of Americans outside the walls of the Flowery kingdom with a spearman behind him and the smell of roasting missionaries in the air.

The concerted howl of the timber owners and lumber barons in Washington shows conclusively that the tariff tax is a big bopanza to them. But how about the great crowd of other fellows whose daily tribute for their benefit comes from a collapsing pocket book?

The new daily paper which C. B. Hoadley has started in Defiance is one of the neatest of the many daily newspapers that have been published in that progressive city. The Bee wishes the venture success. The Express now intimates that it will again enter the daily field, all of which indicates that Defiance will have the usual amount of red hot politics before the spring warms into summer.

Liberalism has almost ruined Quebec, says the Toronto Empire, and a term of such power at Ottawa would ruin the Dominion. Canada is like all the rest; the country is on the brink of ruin when it talks home politics, and is the most prosperous and best-conditioned place in the world when it meets the attention of the foreigner. Just the proper place to halt between these extremes is not the easiest thing in the world for the student to find out.

At the Baltimore M. E. conference, in session this week, the question of the admission of women to the general conference was handled as if it were hot. The vote last year stood 144 against admission and 40 in favor of it, and this year shows little variance. The Sun believes the vote by conferences will show a majority in favor of the change, but it will not become a part of the constitution because a three-fourths vote of the annual conferences and a two-thirds vote in the general conference are necessary to effect the change.

The New Orleans Delta, reviewing the cotton situation says, the February movement has overtopped all previous records. The excess over last year is now 457,000 bales and if the ratio of gain is maintained the crop will exceed 9,000,000 bales. Another year of like production will not only bankrupt the farmer but will result in widespread disaster in commercial and banking circles. And yet with this stagnation, this overplus with its consequent low prices in the hands of manufacturers, there is a duty on cotton goods, increased by the McKinley law. The manufacturer should thrive if the planter does not.

THE CODE.

The shotgun as an agent in the settlement of a class of difficulties in this country is becoming too much the unquestioned custom of the people. Is it an encouraging condition of affairs? The frequency of its application is hardening the conscience to the real danger of the situation. Is the argument and the sentiment that sustain the summary vengeance idea and aid in its growth, a good, healthful sign of progressive civilization? The jealous lover shoots his fiance; he is "temporarily insane." The incensed mistress shoots her paramour; self defense, sufficient provocation, insanity or accident is made legally to cover the deed. The drunken husband in a frenzy of temper shoots his wife and possibly brains his children; his drink delirium is a mitigating circumstance. The seducer pays for his crime with his heart's blood, and the quick verdict is "served him right." The politician calls the opposing candidate a liar, and out comes the revolver and he drops. The successful marksman is tried, sentenced—pardoned.

The revolver is the too common plaything. Boys in our schools in their first teens carry them. Thirteen lads thus armed were found in a school room in a Michigan town. It is really a condition of affairs to occasion serious reflection. If such summary proceeding diminished the crimes that come under the tacitly accepted code, there might be some plea for its allowance. "Thou shalt not kill" is not supplemented by qualifications and exceptions. There is too much of a sentiment of admiration of the brute courage of the swift shooter. Some murderers die on the scaffold; others become heroes. There are grades of the crime and the criminals, to be sure, but is it not true that the revolver is becoming a menace to society in its universality as the weapon of the self-appointed judge, jury and executioner, all in one, at once? Should not "the code" be revised; or better yet, eliminated from the unwritten statutes?

PUMPS AND PRESSURE.

The gas investigating committee has returned, and it is understood they will report in favor of the purchase of pumps for our city gas field. The citizens of Toledo will be induced to indorse the findings of the committee, as the gentlemen selected by the mayor enjoy the confidence of this community.

It is also stated, unofficially, that the committee will recommend an increase in the price of gas and better business methods in the management of the city line. The latter is a conclusion every citizen of Toledo except those directly interested in the job, will agree to, and, as to the price, it is becoming apparent that Toledo must profit by the experience of other cities using gas and increase the price. People now realize what a set of chumps the trustees and the council were in 1890, when the offer was made by the Northwestern company to make a long contract at twelve cents. Bullheaded stubbornness prevented doing the right thing at that time. It is very evident that Toledo must pay more for its gas supply in the future, and everybody would better prepare for what is bound to come. One thing is true, and comforting as it is true, that a considerable advance can be made before reaching the price of coal. What we all want is plenty of gas. If pumps will furnish it, let us have pumps. The price, for city and Northwestern gas will undoubtedly be adjusted upon a fair scale for everybody.

Private Dalzell wants all the lucrative offices of the government, with all the fatness thereof for himself and his associates, and he says so: "We must have assurance doubly sure that our pensions will be largely increased and their adjudication hurried up before we die. We demand the express promise of the next president that soldiers shall be preferred to civilians in federal appointments all along the line from the cabinet down." To this end he calls a convention of soldiers to meet in Minneapolis in advance of the republicans to formulate demands. There is no equivocation about the matter. The boldness and frankness of the Private is admirable from a heroic point of view. Fall in.

SAVING MILLIONS.

Congress Cutting Down the Expenses of the Government.

Washington, March 5.—The house committee on naval affairs has practically completed the naval appropriation bill for the coming fiscal year, and will report it to the house in a day or two.

The bill will carry an appropriation of $24,000,000, or about $8,000,000 less than the estimates, and will be about $14,000,000 less than the appropriation for the current fiscal year. Of the amount appropriated the League Island navy yard will receive $68,000, of which $25,000 will be used to put the yard in condition for construction and repairs.

TOLEDO'S POOR CREDIT.

The merchant or manufacturer who enters the market as a buyer of either manufactured goods or of raw materials, knows that the most important element to help or harm him is his credit; his standing in the business world.

It is not true in practice or theory that "one man's money is as good as another's." Much less is it true that all men can buy the same article at the one price.

The elements that enter into the question of a man's credit only begin with the statement of his worth in dollars and cents. Following that, and oftentimes of far more influence and importance are his regard for his word, his personal habits, and the expenses and way of life of his family. The mere ownership of money does not give a man credit unless the man back of it is of sufficient calibre to manage the money successfully.

Unfortunately for this country every city in it is a buyer—a buyer of money. The price at which this money can be bought depends upon the credit each city has in the money markets, and with those who have money to sell. There is no more sentiment about it than there is about buying and selling sugar, shoes, or sheetings.

New York city can buy money at 2 1-2 per cent. per annum because the security is so unquestioned, notwithstanding the well-known fact that she is robbed of millions every year. Cities in Ohio having small indebtedness in proportion to their taxable valuation can obtain money at 4 per cent., while Toledo's street improvement bonds, drawing 5 per cent. interest, are offered for sale and no one puts in a bid for them!

Of our indebtedness now outstanding we are paying rates of interest as follows:

Bonds issued in 1870 draw 7.30 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1873 draw 8 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1877 draw 6 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1879 draw 6 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1881 draw 4 1-2 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1882 draw 5 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1883 draw 5 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1884 draw 4 1-2 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1885 draw 5 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1886 draw 4 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1887 draw 4 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1888 draw 4 1-2 per cent. interest.
General fund bonds issued in 1889 draw 4 per cent. interest.
Gas bonds issued in 1889 draw 4 1-2 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1890 draw 4 1-2 per cent. interest.
Bonds issued in 1891 draw 4 1-2 per cent. interest.
(Street improvement bonds are not included in the above list.)

The 7.30 per cent. bonds of 1870 were issued to build the Woodville railroad. When we sold that road to the Pennsylvania company it paid us in cash the amount of this debt, but instead of applying it to the payment of our bonds that were drawing such ruinous interest, we used the money for other purposes, and will go on paying this interest until the bonds mature in 1900!

The 8 per cent. indebtedness was created for our water works. There are, in round numbers, $1,000,000 of these out, half of them fall due in 1893 and the rest in '94. That we have no ability to pay them goes without saying. If there was ever any desire to provide for their payment it has never cropped out in our council. If Flanagan, of Texas, were to ask that august body what it was there for, it could truthfully answer: "For all there is in it for ourselves."

We can only do what other borrowers do who cannot meet their obligations; we will make a new loan to pay off the old one. No class of borrowers meet with such cool reception in the savings banks as the one that applies for a new loan to pay off an old mortgage. Prudent bank managers hold that a man who can only meet the old obligation by making a new one of equal amount is not a desirable customer.

In studying the rates of interest paid on our bonds it will be noticed that they had reached a 4 per cent. basis until the $750,000 natural gas bonds were issued in 1889. It is not my purpose to question the wisdom of that issue. The time for that is passed and this is not the place to renew it. I simply mention it to show our financial standing. During the year 1890 money was exceedingly cheap in the large money centers. Bonds of other cities drawing 4 per cent. interest sold at a large premium, while we haggled our 4 1-2 per cent. bonds around like a banana peddler with his fruit.

In December, 1890, there was a money panic in New York and interest rates were high and remained so for the succeeding twelve months, but for the three months past have been very low, and municipal bonds have sold well. With Toledo's credit where it would be under proper management we should float a 4 per cent. bond at a good premium, as we did in 1888. As it is we are hawking our 5 per cent. bonds for street improvements through the country and finally to Spitzer & Co. to sell them for us!

Had to Pay a Commission

Volumes cannot add to this to illustrate our standing in the eyes of monied institutions.

Our water works bonds due in '93 and '94 ought to be refunded at 4 per cent. Under the management of a picayune council largely composed of fourth-class men we will do well to refund at 5 per cent., being a loss to the taxpayers of Toledo, in simple interest in 20 years of $200,000!

But instead of retrenchment the papers note that a committee went to Columbus yesterday for a law enabling the fire department to issue $100,000 more bonds. The park commissioners can, at their own sweet will, issue half a million dollars, and the trustees of the city, seeing their term near an end, recommend an advance in salaries of officers who were only too glad to get the offices at the old figures.

At the spring election there ought to be concert of action among taxpayers to see that each ward sends men of ability and capacity to manage affairs the coming years. But it will be found, as has always been the case, that the little budding lawyers, and men with schemes to help themselves out of the city treasury, are on hand with their gangs, and will secure the nominations. I expect yet to see Vanderbilt's pithy remark hung up in the council chamber:

The public be d—d!

PUMPS VS. PRESSURE.

Another Batch of Information From Pittsburg.

The Pump is an Ugly Question to Solve.

Views of Men Interested in the Natural Gas Business—How and Where Pumps Will Work.

Pittsburg, March 4.—Pumps if found practicable, an increase in price of gas rates, and a more economical management. This will in all probability be the substance of the recommendations that will be made by the mayor's gas committee.

To-day's visit to the gas pumping station in the Murraysville field seems to have satisfied a majority of the committee, if not all, that pumps under the circumstances present in the Murraysville field, can be successfully used.

It was an early start, 4:30, this morning when the first section of the committee in charge of Mr. Hull, the manufacturer of the pumps, left the hotel. The second contingent, which caught a train later, overtook the earlier starters enroute, and all reached the pumping station together.

The engine is a somewhat ponderous machine, and operates somewhat on the same principle as that used in compressing air. It is more intricate, however, and Mr. Hull endeavored to show that it is much better.

Several tests were made. With a steam pressure of 110 pounds the pressure in the gas cylinders was run up from a nominal pressure—four or five pounds—to over a hundred. There are gauges attached which show the pressure of the gas when it enters the cylinder, and another which registers the pressure at the point of exit.

The claim of Mr. Hull is that his pumps about treble the pressure.

"Of course a great deal depends on the demand at the end of the line," Mr. Greenbough, a partner of Mr. Hull's, said later. "A good deal also depends on the steam pressure which drives the pumps."

"How many pumps would it require on the Toledo line?" he was asked.

"That depends. If you get a large pump or pair of pumps they will drive the gas further than smaller ones."

The committee had a long wait for the train on the return journey, but got back to Pittsburg in time to have supper.

The pumps do all evidently that the manufacturer claims for them, but it is a question if they can be operated as successfully in the Toledo field as in the Murraysville field.

Inasmuch as the committee seemed to confine its investigations to the pump men almost exclusively, the Bee, with a view of securing some outside, if indirect evidence, made a brief tour of investigation on his own hook. The result is given:

The committee is assured of this—the gas pump, at best, is but an experiment. Should Toledo decide to adopt it, it will be simply experimenting with an experiment. True, Mr. Pew says gas pumps have been used successfully on the People's line, and the consumers on the People's line substantiate this, and say that the pressure is steadier and the supply more plentiful. The People's line and Toledo's line, however, are very different; so very different, indeed, that there can be no comparison. The People's draws its supply from a field wholly free of oil and salt water. Toledo has hardly a single well that does not show either oil or salt water, or both.

"I was impressed with this fact," said Mayor Emmick to a Bee last night. "Everyone with whom we have conferred say not to try any pumping experiment until we have had a thorough test. In the field where the pumps are used here such water as they may have comes from above, while in the case of our wells the oil and salt water comes from below. In the former case the water comes from a leak and can be pumped out. In the latter the oil and salt water come evidently from reservoirs, and pumping would do but little good."

Mayor Emmick has struck the key to the situation as far as gas pumps are concerned. If this committee decides on the advisability of the city using pumps it will be instituting a proceeding without a precedent. No other gas organization, situated as Toledo's field plant is, has yet undertaken the experiment. As stated in yesterday's letter the committee divided yesterday afternoon. One section went to see the pump works, the other to seek outside facts.

The Bee had a brief but interesting interview with Mr. Pew this morning. At first he was not disposed to talk, but finally consented to answer a few questions.

"I told your committee all I know on the subject," he said, "and I don't know that I can add anything to what I said."

"Yes, but you bound the committee to secrecy, Mr. Pew. If you give me the facts you gave the committee I will be satisfied."

Mr. Pew laughed. "It is not business," he said, "to give away business secrets."

"Have you any wells in your field that show oil or salt water, Mr. Pew?"

"No. We have a little water which leaks through the casing, but that is all. That can be readily pumped out."

"You are aware of the condition of the Toledo field, Mr. Pew?"

"Yes, somewhat; the wells show some oil and salt water."

"Yes. Do you know if the gas pumps are being used successfully in such a field as you know Toledo's to be?"

"I believe that, so far, the pumps have been used only in dry fields. That is as far as I am aware."

"Do you think gas pumps can be successfully used in such a field as Toledo owns?"

"Yes, I think so. The oil or salt water can be readily separated from the gas before it enters the line."

"Do you know where any such tests as you speak of have been made where pumps were used?"

"No, I do not, but the separation of oil and gas is very simple. It is done almost everywhere in the oil fields."

"How many pumps do you think would be required to transmit gas, say 40 miles?"

"Two pumps, I should say, would be sufficient. I should locate them close to the wells, and I believe it would be quite sufficient to bring it to the city."

"What was the rock pressure in your field when you applied the pumps?"

"Thirty or forty pounds. Now we have a pressure of sixty or seventy pounds."

"What size line have you from the field here?"

"Oh, come now. You want to know everything (laughing), but I don't mind telling you. We run three 8-inch lines."

Mr. Pew was evidently growing weary of this interrogation and so the Bee, after thanking him, withdrew.

The trustees thought one pump would be sufficient. Mr. Pew says at least two, and some who ought to know say one for every group of wells, and again others say one every 10 miles. In yesterday's letter the cost of a pump was placed at $20,000. Mr. Tucker, after his return yesterday from a talk with Mr. Hull on the price, informed the Bee that the cost of each pump would be between $25,000 and $30,000. The cost of the pump as it stands here, will be $9,500.

A significant fact in connection with the operation of the plant of pumps is the cost of fuel. Why not burn gas? some will say. Mr. Pew does not burn gas, though, but ships and uses Lima crude oil. Toledo would have an advantage here. The oil obtained from the wells could be used as fuel at a very slight cost.

There is this danger: the pressure of pumps near the wells exhaust the pressure sure as fate. Everyone who has spoken on the subject here has given that as his opinion. Exhaust the pressure and oil and water, where they are present, will follow the gas. This is inevitable and will follow as night follows day.

Mr. John J. Fisher, manager of the Manufacturers' Gas company, was among those seen by Mayor Emmick and others yesterday.

Asked if he considered the gas pumps feasible he said:

"From what I know of the apparatus I do. Our company has been investigating the matter and I think it a matter of time when we will use the pumps."

"Is yours a dry field or are there indications of oil or salt water?"

"We have no oil and such water as we get comes from above and can be pumped. Does the water in the Toledo wells come from below?"

"Yes, both the oil and salt water comes from below."

"That's bad. That' bad. I am afraid pumps won't be of much use to you in that event."

"Why so?"

"Well, in the first place the oil and salt water is evidently there ready to come in as soon as the pressure which now keeps it out is removed. The pumps will certainly help to remove the pressure somewhat and then the oil and water will rush in and drown out the wells."

"How many pumps do you think would be necessary on a line 40 miles long?"

"Well, I should think one every 10 miles or so. Some advocate placing pumps so as to catch a group of wells. The wells in your field, are, I understand, isolated, and it would be a good idea to place the pumps so as to reach as many as possible. As to the number of pumps there should be duplicates at every point. Unless you have double pumps you will have trouble. You will have breakdowns, repairs to machinery, etc., all of which will require a stoppage. Supposing a stoppage should occur on a very cold day, what would you do unless you had a double pump? Oh, there are a thousand things to be looked into and investigated before you can use gas pumps in such a field as yours."

"Have you arranged to use pumps on your line?"

"Not quite, but in all probability we will put them in."

Superintendent Hurd of the same line corroborated all Mr. Fisher said. The matter of expense was something that required careful consideration. Will it pay, is the great question.

That is just the question. It is not a dead sure thing that the pumps can be operated successfully in the Toledo field, and if it were, then the question arises, will the increased pressure compensate for the great outlay?

With a view of securing, if possible, some literature pertaining to gas pumps the Bee visited several of the newspaper offices, but without much success.

Mr. George Wardman, manager of the Press, was seen on the subject.

"No, the gas pumping apparatus has never been discussed in the local papers to my knowledge," he said. "There seems to be a good deal of secrecy about the whole gas business just now. At first there were no secrets. We got everything. But the information seemed to disappear with the pressure. The People's company is using the pumps, I understand, successfully. We use it here, and at home I use the Philadelphia company's. During the winter the supply of the People's has, judging from what I have seen, been steadier than that given by the Philadelphia."

PARTY MACHINERY.

Mr. O. A. Browning Suggests a Good Plan

By Which It Can be Made More Effective—A Matter Which Will Bear Consideration at the Hands of Party Men.

It is no easy matter to plan and carry into effect a political campaign. That mistakes are made and valuable time is lost in getting under way, has time and time again been made manifest to all. Reformative ideas have at various periods been advanced and for some reason or other, been unheeded or listened to listlessly and shelved in the flurry and bustle of the hour, only to return to the old method.

There is no doubt about it, that now is the time for democrats to act and they can do no better than adopt a plan suggested by O. A. Browning, who for years has been chairman or member of county and city committees. Some two weeks will elapse before the committee will be selected by the city convention and Mr. Browning's plan is that the convention elect a city committeeman from each of the nine wards, three members of the committee to serve for one year, three for two years and three for three years.

The result of this will be readily observed by all, three committeemen will go out each year and six will remain who are perfectly familar with the work, who know just where they left off the year before and just where they should commence on the year at hand. The detail of the whole campaign would be clearly outlined in the minds of six of the committee and the way would be paved for the three new members, who, in turn, would aid the new comers in the campaigns to follow.

In the event of the appointment of such a committee there would be no disconnection, no chaotic period, the threads of political campaigning would not be broken and no time would be lost in searching for the several ends and starting anew. The work of the committee would be continuous. There would always be members who would be familiar with everything in connection with it, who would be in touch with the workers, the contributors and all who could aid them in furthering the success of the party.

The affairs of the committee would be carried on with more regularity. One committee would not run up expenses for the next to devise means of meeting, a burden that is a heavy one and a frequent stumbling block for a new committee, that knows little or nothing of what its predecessor has done. The secretaries and treasurers would keep continuous records that would be of value for reference. In fact, the plan presents advantages without end, and those who have the interests of the party at heart should see to it that some such step be taken this year.

THE HALT.

The day was lost, and we were sent
In haste to guard the baggage train,
And all the night, through gloom and rain,
Across a land of ruin went.

But halting once, and only then
We turned aside to let the corps
Of ambulances pass before,
That hauled a thousand wounded men.

And leaning, drowsy and oppressed,
Upon my gun, I wondered where
The comrade was I helped to bear
Slow rearward, wounded in the breast.

When lo! I heard a fainting cry,
As wheels drew near and stopped aside;
"The man in here with me has died;
Oh, lift him out, or I shall die!"

"All right," the one-armed driver said;
"The horse can hardly pull the load.
We leave them all along the road;
It does no good to haul the dead!"

And so we turned by lantern light,
And laid him in a gloom of pines,
When came an order down the lines:
"Push on, and halt no more to-night!"

SOME TWISTERS IN STORE

Many Severe Storms Are Due This Month.

Tornadoes to Visit the Central Valley.

One of the Most Interesting Weather Periods for Years is Just Now Being Ushered in.

Copyrighted, 1892, by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 5.—My last letter gave forecasts of the storm wave due to cross the continent from February 28 to March 4, and the next will be due to reach the Pacific coast March 5, cross the western mountains by close of 6th, the great central valleys from 7th to 9th and the eastern states about the 10th.

The disturbing causes are so great that the weather will be very changeable and the regular movements of the storm center will not be so easily distinguished. The storm waves will probably break up into smaller disturbances tending toward tornadoes, water spouts, hail storms and other small fierce disturbances.

The cool wave following this disturbance will cross the western mountains about the 8th, the central valleys about the 10th and the eastern states about the 12th.

This disturbance may produce severe storms, but there is a much greater probability that tornadoes will occur not far from March 14. This third storm wave of the month will be due to reach the Pacific coast about March 11, cross the western mountains by the close of the 12th, the great central valleys from 13th to 15th and the eastern states about the 16th.

This storm will be at its greatest force from 13th to 15th, while in the Mississippi valley, with great probabilities of tornadoes. These dreadful storms, however, cannot be located with our present knowledge of the weather, but there are many reasons for expecting these twisters in various parts of the United States during the next four months.

The cool wave will follow this last mentioned storm center, crossing the western mountains about the 14th, the central valleys about the 16th and the eastern states about the 18th.

I will regard it as a favor if the reader will send me clipphgs from newspapers in reference to any unusual weather event that may occur for the next six months. I regard it as one of the most interesting weather periods—March to June, inclusive—that will have occurred within a generation past.

More About Drouths.

The drouths of the coming crop season will be so irregular that I will not undertake to give any detailed forecasts in this letter. It will be cut up into spots, depending on the latitude and the topography of the country.

In some parts of the country there will be an almost total failure of crops, while in many other parts will be produced the finest crops that have been made for years, and the prospects are for good prices on all farm products, where supply and demand —not ring combinations—govern prices. Hold all the old products you can and produce all the new you can this year, and if you do not get good prices the weather will not be to blame for it.

Tree planting time is near at hand, and is so intimately connected with drouths that I continue the discussion.

Five hundred years ago, Spain was a desert. Streams, springs and wells were dried up, and the crops generally failed. The meteorologists of that day investigated the matter, and declared that the destruction of the forests was the cause. Foresty laws were enacted, millions of trees planted, and it was made a crime to cut or destroy trees, although they were private property, without a government permit. Thus the forests were largely increased, and the fertility of Spain's farming lands restored.

In the Congo country, rainfall is excessively heavy, while on the lower Nile it is very light. No other cause than the effects of the forests can be ascribed. Otherwise natural laws would cause greatest rainfall on the lower Nile, which is surrounded on the east and north by great seas, and on the southeast by the Indian ocean, a condition very similar to our lower Mississippi, and in a latitude more favorable to heavy rainfall than is Louisiana.

The Congo Free State occupies the most elevated lands of Africa, where the great rivers have their sources, and its elevation is detrimental to rainfall. But it has immense forests, and these overcome all obstacles, and the Congo country has a great rainfall, while Lower Egypt, although otherwise surrounded by much more favorable circumstances, is deficient in forestry and consequently deficient in rainfall.

However, the rainfall in lower Egypt has improved. Sixty-five years ago, the deserts had encroached on the Nile delta and bottom lands, till it became apparent that all the fertile lands would be covered by the drifting sands. The ruler of that country caused millions of trees to be planted, cultivated, and protected, and as the trees grew the rainfall increased, and now the deserts are receding.

When Moses made war against the inhabitants of Asia Minor, the forests were dense, the rainfall great, and the land flowed with milk and honey. The Israelites destroyed the timber, the country became a desert, and the Jewish nation was broken up and driven out. In modern times, the growth of trees has been encouraged, the forests protected, the fertility of the soil is returning, and the population increasing.

This closes my discussion of this subject for the present, and if, during the coming tree planting time, the 5,000,000 readers of these letters plant 1,000,000 trees, the papers in which these articles are published and myself will be well repaid for the efforts we have made.

W. T. FOSTER.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Paul Kauvar at the Wheeler Last Evening.

Debut of a Toledo Young Lady—Prince and Pauper—Bernhardt —Gus Hill—General Dramatic Notes.

"Paul Kauvar," the greatest play ever written on the French Revolution, and one that has done much to add to the fame of its author, Steele Mackeye, was presented at Wheeler's opera house last evening by Eugene Robinson's company.

This drama gives an excellent idea of the terrible times in France during the "Reign of Terror," but is devoid of the blood curdling features that make up most plays of this character. The plot is strong and the interest is kept up until the very close of the five acts, for no one can foresee the end and the story is not completely told until time for the curtain to fall.

It abounds in many exciting situations with climaxes well worked up. A terrible story of love and war and bloody deeds is faithfully told, but with the revolting features omitted.

The stage setting was realistic, and the tableaux dream of anarchy was a magnificent bit of work.

The characters of the play are all well drawn, and are taken by a well balanced company of capable actors, with Edward L. Snader in the title role. His conception of this part is very strong, and he indulges in none of the ranting that is done by many who play the same character. His good work in this part won him much applause and several curtain calls.

Arthur G. Smith impersonated the Duc de Beaumont in an able manner, and E. R. Spencer as Gouroe was especially good in this difficult part.

Roselle Knott as Diane showed great strength in her acting, and her work is especially good in the fourth act.

Toledo people, however, will be interested to know of another member of the company, who is a Toledo young lady, and is just making her debut on the stage. It is Miss Selma Herrmann, who plays the character of Nannette, the little vixen wife of Dodolphe Pottin. She joined the company at Grand Rapids a few days ago, and her appearance last night was only the fourth performance in which she had participated. She took this part on short notice, and without any previous rehearsals, yet her acting would do credit to many much older in both experience and years. She is perfectly easy and graceful on the stage, and in her work shows nothing of the amateur. She has been the subject of much praise to-day, by those who know her, and they predict a bright future for her. Certain it is that she has great talent and ability, and should make a place for herself.

Paul Kauvar is being presented to a good matinee audience this afternoon, and will be repeated this evening.

Bernhardt.

The engagement of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt for a performance of "La Tosca" at Wheeler's, on Friday evening, March 11, has set the theater going public agog and it is doubtful if the demand for seats can be filled.

Madame Bernhardt has probably been written about and talked of more than any living actress and her life has been full of strange things. The latest gossip is that she is seriously thinking of abandoning the stage for the walls of a convent, and in this connection the following from the Chicago Times is interesting:

"From a miserable hovel to a throne as the queen of tragedy has been the strange experience of Sarah Bernhardt. But one scarcely needs to be a prophet or the son of a prophet to foresee stranger things yet.

"She has always had a keen sense of dramatic effects and is credited with saying when a young girl that she would be either an actress or a nun. The latter seemed the more probable, as she was homely, without influence, money, or education, and though of Jewish extraction had been brought up in the strict tenets of the Roman Catholic faith.

"And now the divine Sarah is making a final tour of the world, playing in every civilized portion of it. Such a tour will probably occupy four years, at the end of which time the tragedienne wil return to Paris, playing at the Comedie Francaise until she retires from the stage altogether.

"What then?

"Perhaps the veil and the convent. There could be no more dramatic ending to so dramatic a life. The honor of becoming old and feeble in the blaze of the footlights would be obviated. The well-meant sympathy of friends who sigh "Poor thing! What a wreck she is!" would be eternally escaped.

"And this is likely—more than likely. Bernhardt herself has said it, and, after all, it is scarcely hard to picture that mobile face enwrapped in the band of a sacred order, and these deep eyes raised in the attitude of a consecrated devotee."

Prince and Pauper.

Daniel Frohman's production of "The Prince and Pauper," one of the most discussed of the two seasons' successes, will receive its first production here at Wheeler's, March 7 and 8.

It is a dramatization by Mrs. Abby Sage Richardson of Mark Twain's celebrated story of that name. Originally produced in Philadelphia, it found favor at once and ran four weeks in that city. This was followed by a six-weeks run at the Broadway theater, New York, after which came a brilliant engagement of four weeks in Chicago. In all of these places it returned for two or more weeks this present season to excellent business.

One of the principal features of the production is the acting of Elsie Leslie, who is described by the critics as unapproachable in the artistic value of her work. She was the original Little Lord Fauntleroy in Mrs. Burnett's famous production at the Broadway theater,

New York, and that pretty play undoubtedly owes the greater portion of its prosperity to this first impersonator of the juvenile lord.

Elsie Leslie has known no system of "coaching" in either elocution or acting, and consequently shows no trace of that bane of childish actresses. She possesses a spontaneity, delicacy and finish which most actresses attain only after years of arduous labor.

She will be surrounded by an excellent company—the same as appeared in the New York production, and great attention has been paid to having every dress worn upon the stage strictly accurate as to the period intended to be represented. Mr. W. H. Day, of New York, who designed them, is a great authority upon costumes, and no expense was spared in having the costumers follow his orders implicitly. The result is a most interesting study of the period of King Henry the Eighth of England.

Gus Hill.

Gus Hill's World of Novelties will probably play to big business at the People's next week. The Dramatic News commends them as follows;

Gus Hill and his popular World of Novelties made their first appearance Monday, and entertained two large audiences; that of the evening completely filling the theater. This is the best and most ambitious show ever put out by Manager Hill who has made a fortune by his liberality in organizing the very best of vaudeville companies. This season he made unusual efforts, and the applause Monday plainly demonstrated that his intelligent selection of artists was appreciated. From rise to fall of the curtain there was not a dull moment. Fred J. Huber and Kitty Allyne made a big hit in a new sketch, which is full of comedy situations. Al Reeves, a most popular banjoist, succeeded in a melange of songs and interpolations of up-to-times comedy. Fields and Hanson, a musical team of the highest merit were very amusing. Estelle Wellington received numerous encores and deserved them all for her singing and dancing. Mason and Ralston, two very amusing comedians, were "in it" from start to finish, their unique act being much appreciated. Annie Wilmuth, who sings most attractively, received applause for her efforts. The Judges made an emphatic success in an act entirely new here. Gus Hill, who is the champion club-swinger of the world, was the big star of the performance. His evolutions seem to be more perfect than ever, and his setting of the stage was gorgeous in the extreme. His act is a rare treat at all times. Marion and Keen merit the applause bestowed on their character songs. Manager Gus Hill's week here should turn out an immense financial and artistic success."

Dramatic Notes.

Killarney is the title of a new play in which Katie Emmet will open her next season.

Held by the Enemy closes a fair week's business at the People's to-night.

Miss Gale intends adding Lady Teazle in the School for Scandal to her repertory next season.

Squre Kate, it is said, will shortly be produced in London under the direction of its author, Mr. Robert Buchanan.

Oscar Wilde's new play, Lady Windermere's Fan, produced last week in London, is said to abound in risky lines.

Miss Rose Coghlan will present The Gray Mare, which has been written for her by her brother Charles, in New York, in April.

La FamillePont-Biquet, a comedy by Bisson, now running at the Vaudeville theater, Paris, has been secured for this country by Mr. Charles Frohman.

The Broadway theater and the Academy of Music, New York, claim to have played to over $4,000 on the two performances given on Washington's birthday.

Kate Claxton produced successfully in Louisville her new play called Blackberry Farm. Both herself and Mr. Charles A. Stevenson have very strong parts in the new play.

Before the close of the present season Mrs. John Drew will appear in a new character at the Arch, the creation of which bids fair to equal that lady's Mrs. Malaprop.

Next summer a Russian syndicate will give a great out-of-doors entertainment at South Beach, Staten Island, representing the battle of Plevna, fought by the Russian and Turkish troops.

Among the new plays Mr. Charles Dickson has secured is one called A Paltry Million. Owing to the success of Incog. however, it is unlikely that it will be presented before next season.

It is reported that Rubenstein is going to be divorced from his present wife in order to marry Sophie Pozanska, his clever pupil. The story has been denied, but it refuses to be quieted.

Mme. Bernhardt travels about the country in luxurious style. She has an eight car special train, nearly fifty people in her company, and every play she presents is as carefully staged in one night stands as in the larger cities.

On February 20 Rosa Czillag, a famous prima donna at whose feet all Europe worshiped a score of years ago, died at Vienna. She lost her voice and was reduced to such poverty that she could not leave her room for want of decent clothing. She was the wife of the original Prestidigitator Hermann.

Elsie Leslie, who appears in the double role of Tom Canty and Edward, Prince of Wales, at Wheeler's next Monday and Tuesday, commands the modest salary of $300 a week. She is a bit of genuine histrionic genius, and her performance of this role was one of the clean successes of last season. It will go here.

Steele Mackaye, the author of Hazel Kirke, Money Mad, An Arrant Knave, Paul Kauvar, and numerous other stirring dramas, is at present in Chicago endeavoring to interest the world's fair directors in a plan to build a magnificent play house for a grand production of a play founded on the discovery of America.

Six years ago Manager Harry Askin, of the Tar and Tartar company, was a seemingly prospectless usher at the Broad Street theater. When the McCaul Opera company had fallen into decay and was on its last legs, Askin took it in hand, and with the nerve of a veteran spent $20,000 in restoring to it its prestige. Now he is "on velvet."

A "Shakespearean festival" is to be held at Ford's opera house, Baltimore, during the week of April 18. Miss Julia Marlowe is to be the interpreter of Shakespeare's heroines, and the final performance, April 23, the three hundred and forty-eighth anniversary of Shakespeare's birthday, will be modeled on those given at Stratford-on-Avon in 1864.

HOW BABIES SUFFER

From Torturing Humors

When their tender SKINS are literally ON FIRE with ITCHING AND BURNING ECZEMAS and other Itching, Scaly, and Blotchy Skin and Scalp Diseases, none but mothers realize.

To know that a single application of the Cuticura Remedies will, in the great majority of cases, afford instant and complete relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a permanent and economical (because so speedy) cure, and not to use them without a moment's delay, is to be guilty of positive inhumanity. No greater legacy can be bestowed upon a child than a skin without blemish and a body nourished with pure blood.

CUTICURA

Remedies are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies, are absolutely pure, and may be used from pimples to scrofula, from infancy to age, with the most gratifying and unfailing success.

TREATMENT.—CUTICURA, the great skin cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, externally, instantly allay the most intense itching, burning, and inflammation, soothe and heal raw and irritated surfaces, clear the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, and restore the hair, while CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood and skin purifier and greatest of humor remedies, cleanses the blood of all impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the cause.

"ALL ABOUT THE BLOOD, SKIN, SCALP, AND HAIR," mailed free to any address, 64 pages, 300 Diseases, 50 Illustrations, 100 Testimonials. A book of priceless value to mothers, affording information not obtainable elsewhere.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; CUTICURA SOAP, 25c.; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by POTTER DRUG & CHEMICAL CORP'N, Boston, U. S. A.

Pimples, Blackheads, red, rough, and oily skin and hands, and simple humors and skin blemishes of infancy and childhood are prevented and cured by that most effective of all Skin Purifiers and Beautifiers, the celebrated CUTICURA SOAP. Incomparably superior to all other skin and complexion soaps, while rivalling in delicacy and purity the most expensive of toilet and nursery soaps. The only preventive of inflammation and clogging of the pores. Price, 25c.

THE DEAREST SPOT.

The Merchant and the Novelist
Are walking out with me to-day;
And through the yellow London mist
I point them down the road, and say:

"You see, perhaps, that sullen street
Of old red houses turning brown?
I know the prospect is not sweet,
Yet that's the dearest spot in town."

"Ah yes!" cries one, "we know, we know!
Long years ago a maid lived there
Whose eyes were blue, whose voice was low,
And who had sunshine in her hair.

"And that old house with cornice quaint,
With diamond panes and chimneys tall,
Where you may see still frowning faint
The griffins' heads upon the wall—

"That house was where she used to dwell,
Fair flower of grace and maidenhood;
And all who knew her loved her well,
She was so lovely and so good.

"But you—you loved her best of all,
Most blest of all, for she loved you;
What better boon to man can fall
Than one kind heart forever true!

"And so you loved, a little space,
It might have been a year or twain,
Then time, who lent her all her grace
Took all the glory back again.

"For, ere the day that made her bride,
As seemed the wisest way to God—
In all her pride of youth she died,
And you, heart-broken, fled abroad.

"And now that years are worn away,
With silvered hair you come again
To stand here in the street and say
'This was her home—her window pane.'

"'The old wound never tried to heal,
The sick heart sought not to forget;
But she is past the pow'r to feel
The blow that keeps us parted yet.'

"And so the summing up is this,
Of all the years that you have known,
That life is more of pain than bliss,
And you are old, and all alone."

* * * * * * *

"Neat!" says the Merchant—"very neat,"
You're a romantic Novelist;
Your shadow pictures are so sweet
I'm loth to blow away the mist.

"But for this hapless little maid,
Whose days were all so fair and fleet,
She's only fancy, I'm afraid,
But I can tell the tale complete.

"It's quite absurd—the other day
He bought those wrecks—excuse my mirth—
And in his genial guileless way
He paid three times what they were worth.

"He only met his just desert,
But he was done extremely brown;
That's why he's moved to oft assert
That there's the dearest spot in town."

"You're wrong," I answer with a smile;
"Jest and romance alike are wrong;
And I've been waiting all this while
To put the ending on my song.

"There's nothing mystic in the case
Of that old house with chimneys tall;
I own it's rather commonplace,
But I was born there. And that's all."

Written for the Bee Household by Harry Brigham, Toledo.

A little time ago the famous women's club of New York, Sorosis, discussed "the management of husbands" in serio-comic fashion. A sensational New York paper saw an opportunity in it and offered a prize of twenty dollars in gold for the best plan "to manage a husband," and invited Mrs. Lozier, the president of Sorosis, to be judge of the returns. More than one hundred plans and opinions were sent in, and these have been collected in a book which is on the library table for our inspection. In running through its pages we find the "Greet-him-with-a-smile, dressing-gown and slippers" recipe the most frequent, and in nearly all the sentiment of entire self abnegation prevails—"study his caprices; don't irritate him by disagreeing with him; don't argue; pet him; make him think you idolize him; stay at home if he says stay, go, if he says go; be economical, be earnest, be patient, do not scold"—in short, be an angel of forbearance and self sacrifice and you will "manage your husband without friction." Max O'Rell's plan: "feed the brute," is included in nearly every parcel of directions.

Rather discouraging, isn't it? for those who fondly believed that men and women were advancing into a higher life, and ideal condition of equality and companionship. Of the mass of testimonials, the following was selected as best worthy of the prize:

"There is no need of 'management' where love exists, and where there is no love all the management in the world would effect nothing. Man expects happiness in his home life, and the loving wife knows well how to supply that luxury. Not but artifice, but by honest, open and womanly methods.

"She will not tell him of her petty trials, for he will discover them of his own accord and share them willingly. No slave to him should she be—and a true man would not allow it—but a true wife, sharing his pleasures, taking pride in his advancement, soothing him in sorrow and giving him the warmth and kindred-loving fellowship for which he sought her.

"When disputes arise she should, if convinced of right, maintain her point, for when the argument has passed the husband will respect her all the more.

"Husband and wife are grown too old to play at children in schemes and artifice to maintain the marriage bond. Shame to the wife compelled to 'feed' wear bangs, frills and paint to hold him. There should be perfect frankness and honesty, and the wife to 'manage' her husband must first love him."

Robert Burdette has found out why a man always thrusts his thumb in his mouth if he pounds it with a hammer (when he is putting down carpets or putting up brackets)—it is nature's provision for shutting off swear words.

If you, good housekeeper, are longing for a new carpet for a room and the wherewithal is limited, don't buy a number of yards of cheap goods to cover the floor. Buy a neat pattern of matting and put the rest into handsome rugs, or if these are too expensive, into a centerpiece that dealers call an "art square."

Alas for the mortality of grief!
Next year, perhaps, and next year I may shun
The full sweet life of things beneath the sun.
But only now am I of mourners chief.
Too soon I shall have drunken Time's relief!
A little while, and healing will have run
Through every vein, forgetfulness begun!
O Love, dead love, that woe should be so brief!

A pretty verse, the sentiment of which Julia C. R. Dorr once condensed in one line—"The saddest of all is the forgetting."

Ex-Postmaster-general James, of New York, has been saying some very nice things about women and their bank accounts. Listen:

One thousand and three hundred out of 3,500 accounts belong to women? Give us more trouble than men? Why, quite the contrary. They give us less than the sterner sex. What is more, they always, unlike many of the men who are depositors, know what they want, and when they are through with their business they go away. The women depositors are models of business people. Now, they rarely overdraw their accounts, and that shows they study both sides of the ledger, doesn't it? You may think I am talking too gallantly when I say they are more patient than the men. But they are. More than that, they don't waste time, like some of the men, talking with the teller about the weather 'up where I live' or the 'war news in Chile,' or 'what do you think' of that or the other thing? Indeed, they don't gossip, even, with one another in the bank. It is clean cut business with them from beginning to end.

There, now.

Are you subject to blues? Do not sit down and brood over your sorrows, real or imaginary. You can get away from them by exercise—go briskly about some household work; or better, take a good walk, long enough to weary you, a bit, physically.

Blow winds of March, rain rains of March,
For every drop a flower will bring,
For every spur a bird will sing;
And under heaven's azure arch
Will spread the velvet greens of Spring.
You burst wide open all the doors
For those who deck the walls and floors.

TID BITS.

People will talk, you know, and diverse enough are the bits of the conversation one catches in the crowded rooms where people gather at this season. Cards stop gossip? Oh no, they only serve as a sort of accompaniment.

A dainty little woman at one table near me dexterously shuffling the cards in her hand, says, rather decidedly, "one is not supposed to know anything of the private affairs of one's doctor," granted, but would you say the same of your seamstress?

I have "progressed" several times but the subject seems to have progressed also, for above the subdued clatter attendant on serving the supper I hear, "after all it is more the opportunity one has for evil that gives a reputation for it than the evil which they commit."

"Then a girl ought to avoid the opportunity."

"But that she can't always do. People should be careful not to cry fire until they see smoke, in a crowd.

Sound philosophy. I wanted to turn and see who the speaker was and wondered if she put her theory in practice, and some lines I read the other day came to me as an excuse for her, if perchance she failed—

"Reproach me not, though it appear,
While I true doctrines teach,
I wholly fail in my career
To practice what I preach.

"You guide-post has, through countless days,
'To London' pointed on,
Nor once has quit the angled ways,
And up to London gone."

But one must not think in society, one must talk or at least be talked to, so I brought myself back to my own table where the ladies were assuring each other that "it was far more wearing to have servants than to do one's own work." It seemed to be weariness though that they enjoyed.

If any covet the tiny waists and well developed shoulders of the fashion plate beauties here is the way in which they may be obtained as given in the New York Tribune's Chat:—

"Strong India rubber spring bands are hung from the ceiling at the end of which is a small pully, through which is passed a long cord, with handles at either end. Every day for an hour the young person is "trained" by grasping the handles and going through stated exercises under the supervision of a "lady trainer." The girl does her gymnastics in her corsets; just at the end of the performance a horizontal bar is fastened to the spring, which is just high enough to stretch the figure tensely upward, and in that position the stays are tightly laced with side laces."

Ben to Minus X.

"Hark! I believe there is a ring at the hall bell—yes, there it is again. Patience, please go to the door. Well, well, if it isn't Minus X. Good evening, sir; I'd almost come to the conclusion you'd forgotten the home circle, but better late than never; how is Sister X and the family?

"So you came to talk about poultry and poultry houses, and want our advice. I've a good plan to offer, provided you can quit flirting with Patience long enough to listen to me. If you have a hundred hens or more, you will need a house 12 by 20 feet at least, the floor to be made of matched flooring and one foot from the ground, made to cover the whole surface; let your studing rest on the floor, as this will make it tight. For height, let it be five feet on the back and eight feet on the front, facing the north if possible (as the hens like the sun). This will need a half roof you see. Before siding it up cover the sides with heavy building paper, the roof also; and if you wish it to be very warm for winter it can be ceiled on the inside. Make a window about two-thirds of the length of the front, of clear glass, good size; you can make a drop door or shutter to hang under it, to use during the summer to shut off the sun. Make a tier of nests the whole length under the window; make them outside the building, though opening into it, and level with the floor; make a covering or lid for the nests in sections, on hinges, so one can get to the nests without going into the building, as hens do not like to be disturbed.

The roosts should start from the middle of the floor and run to the top of the back of the building; make of nice, smooth poles to reach the desired length. At the bottom of this side make a drop door as long as the roosts, so this place can be easily cleaned, and keep plenty of sand on the floor. Make an opening at each end one foot by four, for their passage out and in, having a tight drop door as security at night. Have the main door at either end you wish. I plan it as high from the ground as mentioned to keep it dry and for circulation of air beneath. This is a very good plan, but I see Zophai is drafting a house for you which you may like better. I do not agree with N. about building the same as your old house, for poultry like improvements as well as people. It is all right to let well enough alone, but you said in your call for advice that this was not going to be a "one hen affair," so I venture to suggest plenty of room and sand; also keep their house clean and feed them fresh meat occasionally. If you like this plan and cannot understand the directions, let me know and I will draught it out and send it by private letter. Please do not stay away so long, the Household circle needs your presence.

BENJAMIN PRIM.

Home Rule.

Aristotle says: "True marriage is the union of two souls in one body." A loving preference, yielding to each other's judgment, and striving to do all for the best is home rule and home government. The law of love is transmitted from generations past and to come.

Humanity is entrusted with home influences. The generous father, providing a home and comforts to those he loves, and who love him, thinks no hardship of toil of mind or body too great to secure that happiness, strong in the knowledge of an appreciative wife, who imparts to the little ones of the home a loving regard for the home provider. He, in turn, teaches them to respect their mother, as the home keeper.

The deep fountains of love and sympathy should be opened wide; each member of the family should be taught to respect each other's rights and individualities, not to bicker and recriminate, but the law of love, to melt the crust of selfishness, which all possess in a greater or less degree, the yielding of some personal comfort, discovers a sweetness unknown to the selfish. Teach the little ones generosity, and soon their minds become filled with the atmosphere of love.

A child has a toy for his very own, and brother or sister has no right to its enjoyment without the sanction of its owner. How many rebellious thoughts and heartaches would never be aroused if each one was strictly taught the rights of others. Instruct the children of to-day in the impressive thought that in the future they are to be the law makers and interpreters of justice, tempered with mercy. Opportunities for showing unselfish acts are a boon, and once acted upon are rich in their reward.

The giving up an easy chair, a box of candy, an apple divided, a carriage ride postponed, a theatrical treat, deferred to some more convenient time—all these acts of self-denial must be taught in the home; to give up readily and pleasantly some cherished thought. An attractive child of fond parents allowed nearly all its wishes, soon grows to be exacting, and parents yield to the little tyrant rather than exert needed authority. It is hard for an indulgent parent to say "No" when a child says persistently "Can I?" When the decision once made, neither father nor mother should attempt to overrule the other's objection, for it is in this manner so many contentions arise in families. When alone, ask why; never before the child should the other's acts be criticised, no matter if you do think it unjust. Be silent, as also to each other's faults before another.

Devotion to each other, without thought of the "reward of merit," is the death of selfishness. Love in the home is the law of God; blessings follow in its channels. No government can exist without a controlling power. Let the vital current of unity of head and heart coursing through the veins be like the seal of the great American republic. "United we stand, divided we fall," should be the motto of all married people in their home rule. LIDA.

SCRAP BASKET.

M. Labouchere, the London editor, says: "Women are incomprehensible creatures and capable of anything; by turns angels and demons. And there are men who would see them vote. I would sooner give children razors and scissors to play with."

Mrs. L. is a clever and frequent speaker at liberal meetings of women in London, adroit in political utterances, and yet, mirable dictu! the Labouchere household is said to be a model of peace and domestic felicity. Where's the solution of this incomprehensble problem?

Thou needst not ask the angels where
His habitations be;
Keep thou thy spirit clean and fair
And He shall dwell with thee.
—Alice Cary.

One of the royal women of Europe whom the gossips are never weary of talking about is Mme de Rute, best known as Mme. Ratazzi, who is now somewhere between 60 and 70 years of age. The granddaughter of Lucien Bonaparte, she was accounted in her day the most beautiful woman in Paris, but she was a perpetual thorn in the side of her kinsman, Napoleon III. The escapades of her youth are continued in her age, and she is just now the central figure of a scandal that is described as "hideous."

Rushing the Season.

A boat, a man, a girl, a squall;
No boat, no man, no girl, that's all.

The will of the late Mrs. W. P. Wilsatch, of Philadelphia, makes bequests ranging from $1,000 to $20,000 to every charitable institution in that city, and gives to the city an art collection valued at $1,000,000 and nearly a million in property.

And the daughter of Mrs. W. P. W. cannot vote on a city ordinance.

Yet a little while,
Yet a little way,
We shall reap, and rest, and smile,
All the day.
Up! let's trudge another mile.
—Rossetti.

Miss Alice Fletcher is allotting lands to the Indians of Idaho. She travels over the mountains and sleeps in a tent in all security, the Indians understanding her work and showing her great respect.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to his wife hath said:
"I'll not forget a single thing
That you've requested me to bring
When I come home to-night." And then
Comes empty handed home again.

Furniture Polish.

One ounce of white wax, one ounce of yellow wax, one-half ounce of white soap, and one pint of boiling water. Melt all together in a saucepan over the fire, and pour into a bottle. Apply it by rubbing a little on a small space with a cloth of any kind, rub with a second cloth, and polish with a third.

Many of our care are but a morbid way of looking at our privileges.—Walter Scott.

'Twas not a stranger hand that smote nor foe,
'Twas brother dealt the blow;
Nor gave in wrath, nor meant to wound me so,
He merely did not know.

A large dealer in diamonds in Maiden Lane assures me that the number of precious stones worn this day by our women, not to count cheap stones, pierres d'imitation, Rhinestones, so called, etc., are not worth less than $900,000,000. This is due to the great wealth distributed everywhere, and to the love of precious stones shown by American women.—Ex.

It is due to the great wealth which is "not" distributed, oh, wise society editor.

Mrs. George Brown, of Chicago, has patented a car coupler of her own invention, whose simplicity and ingenuity have won the praise of all practical railroad men who have seen it.

Have courage! Keep good cheer! Our longest time is brief.
To those who hold you dear bring no more grief.
But cherish blisses small, grateful for least delight
That to your lot doth fall, however slight.
—Celia Thaxter.

About Flowers.

As spring is approaching again and the ladies begin to think about planting flower seeds and we hear so many complain of poor "luck" in planting seeds or having them come up, I think we cannot too often insist on their planting them with care. Don't plant out of doors till warm enough to plant corn, or a little later; have the soil very fine; cover seeds four times their diameter with fine soil; cover with a cloth—a piece of carpet is good; see that the soil doesn't get dry. When the plants appear remove the cloth and water carefully. When large enough to transplant do so in the evening and shade for three days. Never plant all your seeds at one time, lest something happen them. If planted at two different times and places you're pretty certain to get some plants. I can well remember when I thought if I put the seed in the soil that was all I need do, and I also remember my seeds often failed to come up! To amateurs I would say, plant the hardiest seeds, like calliopsis, ageratum, phlox, portulacca, catchfly, petunia, etc., leaving mimulus, begonia and such tender, fine seeds to those who have better facilities for caring for them. Oh, yes, don't forget some poppies; they come in a dozen differet shades nowadays, double and single; the pink ones with white edges are beautiful; in fact, they all are, and seed so abundantly and self-sow, some stalks having dozens of bloom every morning for weeks. I saved one-half a teacupful of seeds—will send a few to any one who will send a stamp for postage, and will add a few aquilegia seed if wanted, double and single, twenty shades and bloom for years. Linum, pyrethrum, papaver, double hollyhocks, are all good perennials that bloom year after year.

Toledo Bee Household: I have been a constant reader of the Bee Household for nearly three years, and have spent many a pleasant hour reading the lively chat of the sisters. I am a farmer's only daughter, and would not exchange my pleasant country home for the grandest city residence. It has always been a source of great wonderment to me why so many of our young people leave their homes to find other employment, instead of staying on the farms. Farm help is so scarce that the farmers' wives and daughters are often obliged to help in the fields.

Well do I remember one hot day last summer of gathering the "golden sheaves," and just across the road, in the cool school-room, sat a tall, broad-shouldered young man, with muscle and strength, enough to have made him a first-class farmer, teaching a dozen small scholars their A, B, C's at the tune of a dollar a day, and the farmers would have gladly paid him $1.50 a day and board. How I longed to see his linen collar and jaunty tie wilt under that scorching July sun, and his fine shoes would have lost some of their "raven gloss" among those stubbles.

And it is the same way with young girls; they leave their homes and hunt employment in the factories, laundries, or some store, instead of staying on the farm. If I am ever thrown on my own resources for a living, you will find me in some good farmer's kitchen, instead of a smoky old factory.

I am glad they have started the children's column again in your paper. I have a large collection of original puzzles, which I will gladly contribute if they will be acceptable.

Mothers and Sons.

"How is it that mothers—otherwise sensible women—often make perfect fools of themselves over their sons? They bring up their daughters reasonably and intelligently, but treat their boys as if they were demi gods. What is the reason?"

I asked this question of a friend, a woman who has four sons and one daughter, grown up and settled in life, and all, without exception, a credit to her training. We had been talking of Hope Ledyard, that able religious writer and teacher, whose only son has just been condemned to suffer the extreme penalty of the law. How we pitied the unfortunate mother! Why is it that noble women have such worthless sons?

My friend replied: "One reason is they think men of more value to the world than women. They are proud of a manchild, consequently they pet and humor him until selfishness becomes his strongest characteristic. Children are naturally selfish, girls as well as boys, but the girls are oftener taught to give up, to sacrifice inclination to duty. If a boy is outwardly polite, takes off his hat, bows, opens the doors and waits upon the ladies, he is thought a model of propriety. A mother seldom enters into the inner life of her boy. He has many reservations; he does not really confide in her, though she may think he does."

"Yes, and she always considers him infinitely purer and better than he really is. She will believe anything of other women's sons, but nothing against her own."

"I am afraid that is true. The spotless purity and integrity of some mothers, their high standards of conduct and aversion to all kinds of vice, form an impassable barrier between them and the confidence of their more carnal minded sons. I believe that is the principal reason why good women's boys often turn out so badly."

"Don't you think such boys must have had bad fathers?—that heredity has something to do with it?"

"Occasionally, not always by any means. Unexceptionable parents are frequently cursed by wicked sons. A lack of balance in the training is one of the causes." M.

Household Melange.

"Large hats and small bonnets" are getting ready for the spring openings.

Do not leave tin-canned goods to stand in the can after it has been opened, either fruit, vegetables or meat. They thus become unwholesome if not positively poisonous.

Skirts now have no foundations, but are lined with silk; ruches and fringes are most frequently applied to the edges, or very handsome passementerie.

Dutch Horseradish Sauce.—Grate sufficient horseradish to make four tablespoonfuls; put one tablespoonful of butter into a sauce pan, add to it a rounding tablespoonful of flour, mix until smooth; stir in half pint of boiling water, add the horseradish, and another ounce of butter; take from the fire; add the juice of one-half a lemon, one-half a tablespoonful of salt, and it is ready to serve.—Table Talk.

Persian insect powder, if persevered with, will certainly exterminate water bugs. Never allow anything to remain to attract them. Borax, sprinkled over the shelves in closets, will keep them from frequenting there.

The hems on tablecloths and napkins are as narrow as they can be made, except you have them hemstitched and drawn, and then on the tablecloth you might have the hem one inch in width, and a half inch on the napkins.

Black is fashionable again, owing, probably, to the "complimentary mourning" which English aristocracy has put on, out of courtesy to the royal family, in their loss. We may look for a reflection of the fashion this side of the water.

Correction: The article in last week's issue on Milan, should have credited the poem "Cousin and I" to Mrs. J. W. Greene, and the descriptive verse to "Milan Ledger." A matter of seemingly small importance to the casual reader, but meaning more to those interested.

DR. KARL VIRCHOW SCHICK

HIS ARRIVAL IN TOLEDO.

A man whose name has been made famous as the great Germ Discoverer of the Present Century.

Has he Discovered the Fountain of Perpetual Youth?

His methods now known as the

SCHICK SYSTEM.

Dr. Schick has engaged Parlors at the Hotel Jefferson, where any one desirous of consulting him may do so Monday, March 7, to Thursday, March 31, inclusive.

Consultation, Examination and Treatment FREE.

The time has come when men of genius are being recognized, and wherever they have made any new discovery in art or science that benefits all mankind, the people are ever ready to appreciate it and investigate their claims.

During the last decade many new and valuable discoveries have been made in the healing art, both in this country and in Europe; but none have been more potent and valuable than the late discoveries of the great German physician, Dr. Karl Virchow Schick, in the germ treatment of chronic diseases. So rapidly did the sufferers from all forms of chronic diseases recover under this new treatment that within four months after the discovery was made, sixty-one physicians had purchased his formula, and were using it to the exclusion of all others. Eight months later his fame had spread throughout all Europe as well as this country. The entire medical world is converted to his faith, and 806 physicians have adopted his methods.

Arrangements have already been consummated for building a large Institute bearing his name at Chicago, also a building has been leased for the same purpose at Cincinnati, 103 Garfield Pl., and opened to the public Jan. 1st last. The first Institution of the kind was opened in Boston, at 1508 Washington St., a year ago, and so overwhelming a demonstration did Dr. Schick receive from the sick and suffering that he has been encouraged to continue with the results at Cincinnati and Chicago as stated above. So numerous have been the letters of inquiry from every city in Ohio as to how they could obtain this treatment, what it was, and what it would do, Dr. Schick finally consented to adopt the advice of his manager, and make a visit to Toledo, and thus give those who desired an opportunity to see him personally.

It is certainly very gratifying that we are able to state to all our readers that Dr. Karl Virchow Schick will be in Toledo, on Monday, March 7, 1892, and remain until March 31, at the Hotel Jefferson. All those who are suffering from any form of chronic diseases may during the week commencing Monday, March 7, have an opportunity to see and consult with this great scientist, who certainly has astonished the entire German Empire with the discovery that a Germ was the cause of all chronic as well as acute diseases, and that he could entirely remove the same without the knife or any of the old time honored methods.

On his arrival in Boston his fame had so far preceded that all day long during consultation hours the streets about were resounded with the rumbling of carriages filled with suffering wealth, fashion and intellect of New England, who mingled with those whose poverty but increased their ills, all bound for the now famous doctor whose scientific knowledge of the microscope had developed the deadly Germ, which through the ignorance of the medical fraternity had carried so many to an untimely grave. Surely in the hands of this doctor the most insidious and mysterious diseases vanish like the winds, and his skill turns the deathbed into a pillow of health.

The continually increasing tales of wonder from those who have been cured of Cancer and Consumption in its apparent last stages, Tumors located in any part of the body (without operation), Paralysis, Epilepsy, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Deafness, Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Nervous Prostration, and in fact all chronic and acute diseases, with those peculiar to women, that have long since baffled the time honored remedies, seem to yield like magic to the Schick system. Owing to the large number of persons unable to see the doctor during his stay in the eastern cities, he has consented to lengthen his hours of consultation each day, and can therefore be seen in our city from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M., and 7 to 8 P. M. As these are the only days that can be devoted to this city, it is especially desired that we say to our readers, Dr. Schick has consented to spend the above time at Toledo, but no other city or town will be visited as he returns at once to his Institute in Cincinnati.

For the purpose of extending his already world-wide popularity, Dr. Schick will, commencing March 7, and continuing every day until March 31, give to all those who desire such examination, advice and treatment, as may be indicated in each individual case, entirely free of charge; thus giving sufferers from all forms of chronic diseases personal attention, and thereby all the advantages of this new system, which has worked such marvelous cures in Boston, Cincinnati and vicinity. Although the time and expense to him in giving this free treatment will cost $5000, yet he feels that the number he will treat will be so large, the cures he will make so varied, the good he will do will cover so large a field, that the advertisement will be double what could be obtained with the expenditure of $10,000 in any other way. He also hopes to bring to the notice of all invalids his elegant Sanitarium as well as his special system of practice. All that he asks in return is that every patient treated will appoint themselves a committee of one to state to all their friends the results obtained in their individual cases by the Schick System.

Keith, of North Toledo. After some remarks by Grand Chief Templar White, the "Art Gallery" was thrown open and an intermission of ten minutes given in which to allow those so wishing to view the valuable collection of art curios in an adjacent room. Harry B. White then gave nearly a hundred views from his photo-optican, illustrating a trip around the world and through Africa with Stanley. The large audience present having voted to have it so, the entertainment was repeated Friday evening, the program being changed, and though a bad night, the hall was comfortably full at an early hour in the evening.

Miss Taylor lectured at Ironville Thursday nigt, and several new members were received into the lodge. Friday afternoon she organized a temple of juveniles at that place, taking a late train to Portage, where she acted as substitute lecturer for Grand Chief Templar White, who had to be at Lincoln hall, and had been previously announced at Portage, to which place he goes to-day, and on Monday organizes a lodge. Miss Taylor visits the temple at Grand Rapids to-day and to-morrow returns to Cleveland for a short rest.

Excelsior lodge, No. 122, on Lagrange street, give a Red, White and Blue social next Tuesday night, at which all members of the order are requested to wear those colors.

Much interest is being taken in Toledo in regard to the American army. Steps are being taken in various parts of the city to organize companies, and so soon as the requisite number of 30 are enrolled to form a company, the department commander will muster them in. Although started but a short time in Ohio, they have made a record of which any member may well be proud, and but little doubts are expressed as to the possibility of a battalion in Toledo and a full regiment in this district.

WAGER FOR A WIFE.

How an East Toledo Young Man Fixed the Wedding Day.

The Winning of His Bet Has Been Watched with Interest by a Reporter for Several Months.

There is quite a little romance connected with the recent marriage of William Bois, of East Toledo, to Miss Susie Bashford, from just across the Michigan line. "Billy," as the boys were wont to call young Bois, had won Susie's heart, but her father thought him not in a condition to marry yet, so withheld his consent. The ardent suitor finally got the "old man" to consent to the fixing of the wedding day some months ahead, provided Bois should win a certain bet which the father thought impossible.

This novel bet, on the result of which hung a marriage, and goodness knows what else, came to the ears of the writer, who is a reporter at large for all the Toledo daily papers. The result of this peculiar wager was likely to constitute a highly interesting article that would be published at the same time by all the papers. For this reason the scribe watched the progress and development of the affair like a cat watching a live mouse. The next step after learning that such a wager had been made was to find out what the bet was really about. Every now and again during the succeeding months of courtship, the writer tried in vain to fathom this secret but the father and would-be son-in-law managed to keep it a secret until after the marriage.

Well, finally the nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Harris, of Northern Michigan, who was visiting relatives in the bride's neighborhood. After the ceremony and dinner were over and Susie's country cousins had wished her much joy and lots of children, the daughter went forth from her father's house in double harness to fulfill the mission of love. Mr. and Mrs. Bois dodged the proverbial old shoe thrown after them and drove over to the outlying portion of East Toledo in Oregon township, where the young man had taken a small farm to work on shares. After the "honeymoon" had passed the "full" and settled in the "third quarter" the writer ventured a call at the Bois cottage. During a pleasant conversation he spoke of the peculiar wager and asked the groom about the nature of the bet. To my delight he leaned back in his chair, fastened his feet on the round and said: "Well, since I won the bet and Susie and me are married, I don't mind telling you. The condition made by the old gent was that if I could get enough nerve and muscle in six months to put my prospective father-in-law on his back I could have the girl. He also required me to put up a $500 forfeit against his daughter."

After a short pause Bois continued his narrative and said: "This was a pretty tough condition as I had been a chronic dyspeptic and a victim of nervous and heart trouble for five years and was pretty weak while the old gent, as we call him, was only just a little beyond the prime of life and as strong as an ox. But I was bound to have Susie so I raised the $500 forfeit by a hard hustle and resolved to trust to luck to get in good enough shape to down the old gent." Well, after, after the bet I told my only confidential friend about it and he gave me the pointer that if I would recover from my stomach, nerve and sympathetic heart trouble, I would have to do something besides trust to luck.

My friend was finally prevailed upon to tell me about his brother, who he said had suffered for years from the same trouble as myself, and that he had finally been entirely cured by acting according to a scientifically prepared diet chart and taking specific vegetable stomach and nerve remedies. My friend further said in speaking of his brother's case, that the diet chart only allowed such food as would produce nerve force and muscle. Well, to make a long story short, said Bois to the writer, I followed my friend's suggestion and took treatment from the same place his brother did. At the end of six months I was in good shape, I put the old gent on his back, not only once, but three times in succession, after which he threw up the sponge and told me to take the girl and get out, which I did. I have been so well and robust ever since Dr. Kalkhoff, the European Specialist, put me in shape to do up the old gent, that I brag up his common sense method of treatment to all my acquaintances. The reporter, after partaking of a glass of sweet (?) cider and some hickory nuts, unhitched his horse "Charlie," who struck a gait that soon brought both of us back to McGlynn's livery, where "Charlie" boards. I returned that night congratulating myself on my good luck as a reporter.

SOCIETY'S PROJECT.

The instrument that society has taken up and will use to inculcate into the society of the future a proper understanding and intelligent appreciation of the beauties of music, is the Aeolian. Upon it they and their children will have at all times in their homes access to the best works of the masters, and when the next generation of opera goers attend a Wagner or a Beethoven recital their enthusiastic approbation will be founded upon cultivated common sense.

The Whitney & Currier Co. invite you to hear the Aeolian at their piano room, 219 Summit street.

THE TWIN BABIES.

Police Still Investigating the Strange Case.

A Confession From the Mother—Physicians and a Drug Clerk Implicated.

Matters are getting decidedly interesting for Mrs. Hahnel, the woman who disposed of her twin babies about three weeks ago, as mentioned in yesterday's Bee.

The police have been pursuing their investigations, and now Mrs. Hahnel has confessed to the officers that she threw the bodies into the river. She states that she was alone in her rooms at 930 Summit street, and that the infants died soon after birth. She did not know what to do with them, and after they had been lying in the room for three days she tied them up in an old shawl and threw them in the river near the Pennsylvania docks. She also told the name of the children's father, and says he is now living in Xenia.

Mrs. Hahnel does not seem to realize the enormity of what she has done, and thus far has been very flippant about the matter.

Mrs. Annie Wiggins, the woman who reported the matter to the police, lives in a room above Mrs. Hahmel's and she states that she saw a physician perform an operation on Mrs. Hahmel about four hours before the birth took place. She witnessed this transaction through a stovepipe hole in the floor, directly over Mrs. Hahmel's bed.

After the babes were born Mrs. Wiggins assisted Mrs. Hahmel in dressing the little ones.

A drug clerk named Paul Lacy, employed in a drug store on the corner of Summit and Cherry streets, is also implicated in the affair, as it is alleged that he sold medicine illegally to Mrs. Hahmel. Some of this medicine was procured by the officers, and was submitted to City Chemist Kirchmaier for analysis. Much will depend on what he finds.

There has been considerable difficulty in the matter of prosecuting all these people, and for this reason they were not arrested several days ago. Detective Duffy laid the case before Police Prosecutor Wheeler Wednesday morning, but he has refused to issue a warrant.

Mr. Duffy then placed the matter before Health Officer Fisher, and that department has taken a hand in the investigation for the reason that no report of birth, death or burial was made to the health office as required by law.

It is said that the physicians in the case, for there were at least two, have been implicated in like matters before, and the department is determined to break up this business and punish the offenders, or at least make Toledo a place too hot for them to pursue their nefarious practices.

Simmons Liver Regulator has never been known to fail to cure all liver diseases.

THE FRENCH CRISIS.

London, March 5.—The Times' Paris correspondent says that the elimination of M. Constans was the only object of the recent cabinet crisis in France.

Continuing, he says: "This proves how democratic bodies can detest those who have done them the most service. M. Constans was ousted from the ministry because the great service he had rendered his country had made him a formidable rival in the way of personal ambitions."

PECULIAR THIEVING.

"You go right away from that window, young man, or I'll call a policeman."

The speaker was the forewoman of a swell Fifth avenue millinery shop, says the New York Advertiser, and she came out of the door like a newly-exploded rocket.

A shabby young man, with a small pad held in the hollow of one hand, and a stubby pencil in the other, was the object of her remark.

He dropped his drawing utensils into his coat pockets, and, turning on his heel, walked rapidly down the avenue.

The forewoman re-entered the store with a triumphant smile.

"That's the third time I've caught him," she said, in response to a shower of questions from a coterie of customers, "and if he tries it again I'll have him put in jail. He's in the employ of a cheap hat and bonnet factory over on the East Side, and about once in every two weeks he makes a round of the principal millinery store windows and takes rough sketches of the newest and most fashionable designs.

"Of course, as soon as a fashion or a style reaches the Bowery it ceases to be worth anything to us, so we make every effort to protect our novelties as long as possible."

TOO MUCH FOR HIM.

A Lansing, Michigan, man quotes the corner card in Wednesday's Bee concerning the Blaine letter and says: "The above I cut from the Bee of March 2. I have always voted a straight republican ticket, but this meanness of Secretary of State Blaine is too much for me. Lansing has a good many republican voters, but this shameful way that "Jim" Blaine has pitched onto a woman who deserves Mr. Blaine's help instead of his abuse will and has surely turned good republicans against him. Even the hardest-hearted old war horses never treated a woman and a namesake so harshly, and "Jim" Blaine deserves all the contempt that mankind can show.

Very respectfully,
ED SAMUELS.

TO LADIES ONLY.

Would you be both youthful and beautiful?—use Dr. T. Felix Gouraud's Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier. It elicits a clear, transparent complexion, free from tan, sunburn, freckles or moth patches—purifying and beautifying the skin at the same time, and so closely imitating nature as to defy detection, when properly applied. It has the highest medical testimony, as well as professional celebrities, and on its merits has become one of the largest and a popular specialty in the trade, as well as homes of the elite in both Europe and America. It is the oldest preparation on the market—of over 40 years' standing.

The wish to be beautiful is predominant in every woman, and none can say she does not care whether she is beautiful or not—if only just to please her friend, lover or husband. It puts back age, in appearance, at least 10 years by its wonderful results.

A SCHOOL GIRL'S ESSAY.

A teacher in the Warren grammar school gave to a class of young girls The Toledo Bee as a topic for descriptive effort. The following well-written paper is given for publication:

The Bee was first published on May 26th, 1876. It had just four columns on a page, and was 9 by 13 inches in size when first started. It is now 20 by 33 inches in size, and has 8 columns on a page and 8 pages. One thousand two hundred were printed an hour when first started, now 400 are printed a minute and 24,000 an hour.

Some of the rooms in the Bee building are: the rooms of the manager-in-chief, associate editor, exchange editor, telegraph editor, telegraph operator, reportorial and artist's room.

Work commences in earnest at 8 o'clock in the morning. When the workers take their places in the morning they know very little what is to fill the columns for the day's paper.

In the room of the editor is his private reference library, as complete a one as there is in the state and all members of the staff have access to it, so what they cannot remember for themselves they can always find in books.

There are only two other newspaper offices in this state which use machines, and only five offices beside the Bee west of New York that depend upon machines for the major portion of their composition. The types are represented by matrices, which are used in type casting machines. In the meantime telegraph instruments click away, bringing all the news of the world into the reach of the writers. The operator listens to the wonderful sounds of the alphabet and puts into clean, nice copy ready for the printer.

The reporters go to their daily assignments in the city to put into their books everything of interest.

The proof of what the telegraph editor sends to the printer is soon sent back again to the editors that they may make connections and changes as they like. The city editor sits at his desk to receive the copy the reporters bring in and sends it up to the printing machine. He assorts and edits, gets it ready for print. The telegraph editor looks over the dispatches that come in after the issue of the day, and condenses the most important of them. Then the morning papers are glanced over for anything he may not have caught on his book, and by the editor for any note.

They print the papers very fast. First they takes an immense roll of paper and push it under the press on a small truck; then they move the lever and they have just what they want on a large cylinder of type to print with. Then it is printed, then they move the lever again and it is cut, then it goes through another part of the machine which cuts, folds and packs them in bundles, 50 in a bundle. A man comes and gets them and sells them to the newsboys, and then they go and sell or deliver them to their customers.

A little further description of the machinery may be of interest: When the assembled line will contain no more words it is thrown to the left and in front of the melting pots where a lever strikes the wedges and drives out the line to the width of the column. Two operations are now concluded. The clean shaven slug with its beautiful sharp cut face of letters and words is, barring mistakes, ready for the make-up to use in forms. The third and last operation is the distribution of matrices to their original channels in the storage magazine.

The first floor above the basement is occupied by the counting room and its offices. They are handsome rooms. The building is situated on St. Clair street, between Madison and Adams streets.

With the Ladies About Something in Which They are All Interested.

More than one-sixth of 1892 is gone, and while there may not be much in the weather to indicate its approach, spring will soon be here with all its pleasures and house-cleaning perplexities. You will want to make some changes in house adornment this spring, and we want to help you in this interesting occupation. We want to tell you first about our

NEW DRAPERIES.

We rather expect to eclipse all former efforts in the line of Upholsteries this season. The stock of new curtains, draperies and portieres is now properly complete, with nothing to wait for. An artist of considerable experience in designing and furnishing is at your service, in addition to the regular organization. There's only one way to know the newness and novelty of this department—with the eyes.

Suggestions of home beautifying in—

Lace Curtains,
Chenille Portieres,
Flax and Tilian Velours,
Furniture Coverings.

The chenille draperies alone representing over a thousand different styles, ranging from $3.50 to $200 a pair.

Some things we do—make window shades and prepare estimates upon any amount of house or hotel furnishing.

NOW ABOUT CARPETS.

In selecting a carpet there are several essential points to be remembered, one of which is that you buy where the light is thrown on the carpet you are looking at, so that the fabric has exactly the same appearance that it will have when it is laid on the floor in your own home. Another point is to buy where you can have plenty of patterns to select from. Don't allow yourself to be talked into the belief that every house furnishing establishment in this city has as good a selection as we have, for they don't. All we ask of you is, after you have looked everywhere else, come to us, and we will show you what a large stock of carpets means; or, if you want to save time, and not tire yourself all out traveling around the city, and want to be assured of a bargain in any event, come direct to us, and you will do wisely and well.

If you cannot come in, write for samples and prices, and we shall be pleased to give your communication a prompt and satisfactory reply.

A. R. SISSON, Manager.

Hermann Vezin, the American-English actor, has recovered damages to the amount of £100 and doctors' fees from the managers of a theater at Colchester, for injuries received by the premature lowering of the curtain while he was playing Hamlet. The curtain pole struck him on the head and knocked him senseless and he was laid up for several weeks. This was the accident that Capoul so narrowly escaped at the Academy of Music in the recent performance of "Romeo and Juliet."

Brown's Teething Cordial is pleasant to take; babies often cry for it.

The pay roll on a railroad in North Dakota last week showed that one employe, a fireman, worked for 48 hours at a stretch, then had three hours relief for sleep, and resumed work and continued working for 31 hours more. It is explained that the heavy snowfall has pressed the road very much.

Garfield Tea is composed wholly of harmless herbs, hence its effects can never be injurious. Why, then, take nauseous pills, oils or cathartics that constipate?

Ebony is plentiful enough around some parts of Mexico to be used for firewood. Hereabouts it is so precious that a policeman who has an ebony club with which to break people's heads is looked upon as being too toney to live.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

That growth of luxuriant curly hair you saw was probably secured by using Natural White Oil. All druggists, 50c.
